High Old Liquor Taxes to Be in Operation When Repeal Goes Through

WASHINGTON—If the Eighteenth Amendment is swept out of the Constitution before January, the New Dealers will be in a jam on liquor taxes. They are not saying anything about it publicly, but some of them think an extra session of Congress may be necessary.

The whole trouble is this: The old liquor taxes are likely to prove too high. They are so high that bootlegging is going to continue.

Here is the way they run: Champagne—12 cents per half-pint; whiskies, brandies, liquors—$6 per gallon; wines up to $1 a gallon.

These were enacted in pre-Prohibition days when the drys held sway, and nobody expects the present wet U. S. A. to pay them. So Roosevelt must either reduce or else keep the Prohibition and Coast Guard forces at full strength.

Spend More

It is the sound boast of General Hugh Johnson that he is the man who "started all this budget balancing talk." But, apparently, he has had a change of heart—at least as far as NRA expenditures are concerned.

The other day a certain Democratic leader asked him if he contemplated any economies for NRA.

"I do not," was the emphatic reply. "I'll probably spend more before I spend less."

Neighbors

Whether Congress sits or not, the busiest member of the Senate is Millard Tydings of Maryland. Getting in to see him is almost as difficult as seeing the President of the United States. Callers fill his office and overflow out into the hall. They come for jobs, they come with complaints, they come to borrow money.

The reason: Millard's constituents live only a few blocks away.

A senator from Pennsylvania or Virginia has a bad enough time. But the brain on their time can't compare with Tydings'. He has to make special trips from Baltimore all summer. What increases his work is the fact that he is so efficient in handling it.

But—when a lady clerk came from the Internal Revenue Bureau the other day and wanted the Senator to have her boss discharged because he insisted upon opening a window, Millard threw up his hands and wished he was from distant Wyoming.

Railroad Impasse

Government operation and ownership of the railroads is getting closer. That is the side-line opinion of Railway czar Joe Eastman and other Brain Trusters.

One recent factor edging the railroads in this direction is the row with the Big Executives over buying increased equipment and hiring more men.

Eastman has told them to buy new rolling stock, keep their roadbeds and machine shops up. He has pointed to the I. C. C. report that recently these have lagged woefully behind.

But the Executives have said no. They have told Eastman privately they will not add to their costs until they have increased their income and profits.

The Railway Brotherhoods are demanding that Eastman's edict be carried out. So the Administration is caught from both sides. Yet it is a fact that the roads have not been paying interest on their watered stock, in some cases even on their bonds. But most important of all, the railroads are one of the chief keys to the recovery program.

All this is why government operation looks a little closer.

NOLAN WAGES WAR AGAINST BULKLEY MAN

Steubenville Man 'Goes Into State' for Democratic Chair

OPPOSES WATSON

Brunner's Job Center of Hot Controversy

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—Open war broke out today in the battle for the Democratic state chairmanship as John F. Nolan, Steubenville candidate, left on a hurried vote-getting trip after declaring he was "carrying the fight out into the state" against U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley and his candidate, Dr. Carl Watson of Findlay.

Refusing to reveal his destination, Nolan said he was off on a trip to win more votes for his candidacy in anticipation of the meeting of the state central committee here Thursday when a successor is to be elected to Former Chairman Henry G. Brunner, resigned.

Simultaneously, eastern Ohioans from Steubenville, Martins Ferry, Bridgeport, East Liverpool and St. Clairsville began rallying to his support by making plans to send delegations here.

"FIGHT TO FINISH"

"I am in the fight to the finish and nothing can cause me to withdraw from the race," Nolan said. "I have received assurances of support from unexpected sources over the week-end which give me added confidence."

Although infuriated by a letter sent out by Senator Bulkley Saturday urging committee members to elect Watson, a "dark horse," Nolan said he would not engage in personalities and would not make any charges of any kind against Bulkley.

"The letter which the senator mailed—calling for the election of a man of the highest type, and then recommending Dr. Watson—can only be construed as a direct slap at me, as I was the only candidate in the field," he said.

WHITE IS NEUTRAL

Eastern Ohio delegations are preparing to come to the capital to convince Governor George White and Senator Bulkley of their loyalty to Nolan, it was explained by the Steubenville party chief. Governor White has taken a position of "absolute neutrality."

Congressman Lawrence Imhoff, of St. Clairsville, will be one of the leaders.

Others scheduled to come here, Nolan said, are W. B. Francis of Martins Ferry, newly-appointed (Continued on Page Two)

MISSOURI LATEST IN REPEAL PARADE

Enormous Wet Majorities In Large Cities Provide Three To One Margin.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 21—Preponderant wet majorities in the cities today clinched Missouri's place under the repeal banner with 21 sister states by a margin of more than 3 to 1.

St. Louis-co voted for nullification of national prohibition by a 20 to 1 majority. Kansas City added its weight to the repeal trend by a 10 to 1 vote. Final but unofficial tabulation of the vote in this city showed 211,742 for repeal to 10,556 opposed.

Throughout the state the vote was more than 3 to 1 for the 21st amendment to repeal the 18th, partial returns demonstrated. The figures collected from 3,449 precincts of the state's 4,104 gave: For Repeal, 483,416; opposed, 135,389.

Several days will be required to complete the final official count of Saturday's referendum. Many rural precincts were yet to be tabulated.

Two delegates selected from each of the congressional districts will meet Aug. 29, in Jefferson City to formally cast the state's vote for repeal.

BRIDGE SCENE OF HEAD-ON COLLISION

No one was injured at 8:15 p. m. Sunday when a Model T Ford and a Studebaker sedan crashed head-on in the middle of the Walnut-creek bridge, across the Pickaway-co line, north of Circleville.

Names of the occupants of the autos were not learned.

Neighboring farmers aided in clearing away the wrecked cars so that traffic might not be impaired. One-way traffic was in effect while the wreckage was cleared.

Train Falls, 200 Chinese Officers Die

Men Being Conveyed To Kiangsi Front Die In Siao River.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 21—Two hundred Chinese army officers were killed today when 200 coaches of a train conveying 500 officers to the Kiangsi front were derailed and plunged over the side of a bridge into the Siao river.

The accident occurred between Kiukiang and Nanchang.

The 500 officers were returning to the Kiangsa front to resume operations against Communist bandits after completing a special course in mountain climbing at Kuling, headquarters of General Chiang Kai-Shek, commander-in-chief of the Chinese armies.

Survivors made desperate attempts to rescue the 200 men trapped in the submerged coaches but were without success. Repair gangs rushed from Hanchang and Kiukiang were unable to raise the coaches in time to save any of the victims.

NEW INCOME TAX LOOMING

White Says Money Must Be Raised For State's Schools This Session.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—An income tax for Ohio may be recommended to the state legislature this week as a means of raising $7,000,000 for state-aid schools for this year and next, Governor George White declared today.

Asserting positively that he will have a school program ready to present to the assembly when it completes its poor relief tasks, probably tomorrow or Wednesday, the governor added:

"A state income tax is under consideration as a source for the money for schools. I have not decided whether it will be recommended."

Whether the income tax will be placed in the program probably will be decided at a conference of three members of the "brain trust" which the governor called for this afternoon. Those summoned were Tax Commissioner Carlton Dargusch; Major E. O. Braught, state relief supervisor; and Dr. E. O. Skinner, state director of education.

Beavers' Suicide Motive Uncertain

Leans Against Shotgun Shooting Self Through Chest At Buskirk's.

No reason was advanced today for the suicide of Leonard Beavers, 38, who shot himself to death in the barn of Howard Buskirk, Darby-twp., Saturday morning.

Beavers had been unemployed and went to the Buskirk home last Wednesday asking if he could stay for awhile. Saturday he obtained a shotgun and went to the barn. He placed the gun against his chest and pulled the trigger with a stick.

The act was watched by Buskirk's son, aged 8.

The body was taken to the Norris funeral home in Harrisburg to be prepared for burial after Dr. C. E. Bowers, coroner, returned a verdict of suicide.

Beavers is survived by his wife, Mrs. Goldie Beavers, residence unknown; his mother, Mrs. Anna Beavers of Mt. Sterling, two brothers, Floyd of this city and Taylor of Columbus, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Beeman, also of Columbus.

EARLY MOVE SEEN

County Committee May Have Huge Power

Democratic leaders were of the belief, Monday, that an early announcement would be made of the three persons best qualified to fill the postmastership in this city. Questionnaires, filled out by 18 local persons, are now in the hands of the postmaster general's office and will be carefully studied to determine which three persons, according to business records and a hundred other questions, are best fitted.

When the applications have been properly gone over names of the trio will be sent back to the county committee where a recommendation will be voted. This recommendation, it is thought, will be referred to Congressman Mel G. Underwood who in turn will send it to Washington D. C. when the definite appointment to be made by Postmaster General James A. Farley.

FOLLOW COMMITTEE?

Mr. Underwood, it is reported, has said he will abide by the committee's recommendation.

The field is wide open at this time, one candidate apparently having as good a chance as another until the questionnaires have been graded paring the field to three.

The list of applications, announced Saturday includes:

Mrs. Bessie Wardell Harper, wife of Dwight C. Harper, E. Main-st.;

Lowell M. Brown, Elm-ave, former Pickaway-co juvenile officer;

Samuel T. Rife, N. Pickaway-st, school teacher and secretary of the Democratic executive committee;

Thomas W. Brown, W. Union-st, former employe of the county highway department.

Howard S. Irwin, S. Washington-st, former deputy sheriff;

Mrs. Marior R. Lutz, W. Franklin-st, secretary and stenographer for Richard Simkins, attorney;

Clark K. Hunsicker, W. Union-st, elevator operator and chairman of the Democratic central committee;

Leland E. Pontius, Pinckney-st, teller for the Third National bank and a world war veteran;

William M. Reid, E. Union-st, retired school teacher and a nominee for Democratic councilman;

Frank A. Marion, N. Scioto-st, contractor and councilman;

Figures in Campus Murder Trial

Accused of the murder of his pretty wife, Allene, David Lamson, 30-year-old sales manager of the Stanford University press, is scheduled to stand trial at San Jose, Cal., on August 21. Mrs. Lamson's body was found in the bathtub of their home on the campus of Stanford University. She had been bludgeoned to death. Circumstantial evidence resulted in the husband's arrest and indictment. Miss Dolores Roberts, maid in the Lamson home, is expected to be one of the star witnesses at the trial, during which Lamson will be defended by former Congressman Arthur Free. The most pathetic figure in the case is Allene Genevieve Lamson, 2-year-old daughter of the accused man, who was rendered motherless by the tragedy.

Sex and Science To Play Important Part In San Jose Court.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 21—Sex and science, key witnesses, stalk the crowded San Jose courtroom, where David A. Lamson goes on trial today for the murder of his pretty young wife, Allene.

No ordinary murder this. For background, picture the scholastic and social prestige of Stanford University, where David Lamson, brilliant 30-year-old Stanford graduate, held an executive position with the University press.

Of that same background was demure Allene Lamson, Stanford graduate, looking at least 10 years younger than her 28 years, seemingly adored and adoring wife, mother of a three-year-old baby daughter, salaried executive in the University Y. W. C. A.

FOUND IN BATHTUB

On May 30, Allene Lamson was murdered or accidentally met her death in the bathroom of their campus home—a home so near that of former President Herbert Hoover that vagrant breezes carry the perfume of flowers from the Hoover estate to the cloistered Lamson garden.

MAYOR'S COURT BUSY

Mayor E. T. Hedges handed out fines and jail sentences to three persons arrested for intoxication and disorderly conduct over the week-end.

Joseph Wilks, this city, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to serve 10 days in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication following his arrest at 5 p. m. Sunday by Officer William McCrady and Deputy Sheriff Bob Armstrong.

Charles Wright, of Kentucky, who was arrested with Wilks on a similar charge, was given the choice of 90 days in the Columbus workhouse or to leave the county forever. He chose the latter and was dismissed at the police station.

Irvin Hampp, E. Ohio-st, who was arrested by Officers Smith and McManamy, Saturday at 11:30 p. m. on a charge of disturbing a church meeting at the Mound of Praise camp ground, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs and committed to the county jail.

Mrs. Nina Jenkins, this city, was being held in the county jail Monday for contributing to the delinquency of her minor children following her arrest Sunday by Sheriff Charles Radloff. She was arrested near Richmondale, Ross-co.

The warrant for her arrest was signed by her husband, Roy "Red" Jenkins.

Another person is being sought in the case.

METHODIST MEN'S GROUP WILL VISIT LAKE, WEDNESDAY

The meeting of the Methodist Men's club at the summer home of Ed. H. Rausenberger at Buckeye Lake has been definitely set for Wednesday of this week. It was first planned to meet Aug. 30. Members of the club, their families and guests are invited.

Dr. G. D. Phillips, president of the club, urges that a large number of members be present since Mr. Rausenberger invited the organization to meet with him. All are to take their own baskets.

Persons attending may leave at anytime with 7 p. m. set as the time to eat.

NRA WORKER TAKES TO AIR

Miss Woods, Ohio Director, To Appear In Many Principal Cities.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21—Spreading the NRA gospel from the skies, Miss Mary E. Woods, Ohio director of the National Recovery Act, hopped off from here today for a three-day airplane tour of the state in a hope to corral lagard Ohio employers who have failed to sign NRA pledges.

In a ship piloted by Harry Seivers, veteran flyer, Miss Woods will touch every large city in the state. She is scheduled to speak at Akron, Canton and Youngstown today, and at a huge rally in Columbus tonight.

According to Miss Woods less than one-third of the total number of employers in the state have given signed agreements to support the NRA blanket code. As she left this city on the whirlwind tour, Miss Woods expressed hope that at least 100,000 more employers would sign pledges before the deadline September 1.

NEW YORK OBTAINS POWER RATE CUTS

Savings of Nine Millions To Consumers Ordered By State Commission.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Metropolitan New York today rejected over a public service commission order directing a 6 per cent reduction in rates for electric current, effective Sept. 1, for a period of a year, which will mean a saving of $9,900,000 to consumers.

In New York City, the reduction will be 6 per cent on the bills of five companies supplying electricity. These companies, The New York Edison, United Electric Light and Power, Brooklyn Edison, Queens Electric Light and Power and Bronx Gas and Electric, are controlled by the Consolidated Gas Company.

The public service commission ordered the reductions after discovering the companies had increased their earnings, built up surpluses, paid higher dividends and distributed bonuses and salary increases to officers while most lines of business were experiencing sharp recessions.

Coal Provides Most Difficult Solution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Adoption of codes of fair competition for the turbulent bituminous coal and the giant automobile industries, with a coal code predicted this week, today became the goal of National Recovery Administration Hugh S. Johnson.

Having brought the steel and oil industries under codes although reluctantly somewhat on a trial basis, Johnson quickened the drive to bring the key industries under the act speedily.

Major industries for which codes have been proclaimed include tex-

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery administrator, declined to confirm today reports that he contemplated retiring from his job by the first of the year.

He said he had no plans, although he doesn't plan to stay in government service "forever."

JOHNSON IN ACTION

After having presented the steel and oil codes to President Roosevelt in his bed room he was preparing to leave Washington Saturday night, Johnson resumed his battle with the bituminous coal magnates and expected to confer with them almost continuously until the fight is settled.

The automobile code was being prepared for presentation to manufacturers, following a hearing, with indications that the modified open shop clause would be stricken and minimum wages proposed by the manufacturers increased.

The hardest problem faced by the recovery administration was with the coal industry. Twenty-eight group codes must be replaced with one national code, recognizing and providing for regional differences, Johnson informed the operators.

Control of production and minimum price provisions were to be written into a code by the recovery administration, following the precedent set in codes for the lumber and oil industries.

MAY BE TEMPORARY

The price fixing and production provisions of the lumber and oil codes were regarded as significant.

SLEEPING SICKNESS EPIDEMIC SWEEPING ST. LOUIS; 12 DEAD

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21—With twelve victims dead and new cases in the dread sleeping sickness epidemic increased to 125, health authorities today turned to experiments with monkeys in their campaign to check the spreading disease here.

Monkeys will be made the subjects of laboratory tests to determine, if possible, how the encephalitis germs are transmitted among humans, Dr. J. P. Leake of the U. S. public health service said.

Eight new cases were reported here last night as the twelfth victim, Mrs. Mary Joachin, 50 years old, died.

Oils and Aces Meet Tonight

The second game of the second half elimination series will be played at the Circleville Oils and the Aces. The game starts at 6:15.

In the last meeting, of these teams the Aces won by a one run margin after a fast game. Lloyd Leasure and Carl Purcell are expected to be the opposing pitchers.

The Aces have shown much improvement in the last few games defeating the Sinclair Oils and the Wallis Sluggers mixing it Wednesday evening.

The winners of the game will meet the Bulldogs Tuesday evening for the right to remain in the running with the Sinclair Oils and the Wallis Sluggers mixing it Wednesday evening.

The finalists will meet for the second half title Friday evening with the season play-off to start the following week.

found that May morning dead in the bathtub, discovered by her own husband. The water in the tub discolored with her life's blood, four dreadful wounds on her head.

Today David Lamson comes before Superior Judge Robert R. Syer in a San Jose courtroom packed with men and women—grave faces, accusing eyes, blank expressions, a cross section of humanity in the mass preparing to sit in judgment upon his guilt or innocence.

From this venire of some hundred men and women the prosecution hopes to find 12 jurors who will believe that David Lamson bludgeoned his wife to death with a 10-inch length of finger-thick pipe—a pipe found in a bonfire in the rear of the Lamson home.

The prosecution will call the witness, science—in the person of various experts, to attempt to prove that the red stains on the iron pipe are infinitesimal blood drops from the life stream of that human organism that once was Allene Lamson.

The prosecution will call the witness, sex—in the person of various experts, a former housemaid, business associates, to attempt to prove that frigidity and frustration had secretly turned this college campus home into a Freudian hell.

CLAIMED ACCIDENT
 The defense will call the witness, science, in the person of the famous Berkeley criminologist, Edward O. Heinrich, to attempt to prove that Allene Lamson could have come to her death, by accident, that the pool of blood on the bathroom floor, the other blood stains could all be accounted for if she hit her head in the way they are prepared to show possible.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

If Portsmouth's Spartans are going anywhere in the National Professional football league this fall they had better start building their ball club... They've lost at least two stars who were outstanding in the league in the persons of Earl "Dutch" Clark, sterling quarterback, and Bill McKelvie, as fine an end as there was in the loop... Clark has gone to Colorado State School of Mines as head coach and has taken McKelvie with him as line mentor.

They're trying to sign Bob Campiglio, star eastern collegian, but have given up hope of attaching the name of Cliff Battles, Kentucky star, to a Spartan contract... Boston has him under lock and key and will trade him for not less than half of the Portsmouth team... One thing in Portsmouth's favor, Coach Patsy Clark is back in the fold, and that's something.

The next paragraph will be entitled "The Missing Dime" or "Lost in the Shuffle" and it has to do with the passing of the collection hat at recreation ball games... Many, many persons who can afford to toss a nickel or dime into the hat "look out the window" when it is passed... These same people get as much kick out of the games as does anyone else and probably they are the first to cry on a poor decision... It is necessary that every nickel possible be obtained to help defray expenses for balls and it seems that those who can afford it would deposit a nickel or dime just to help a little.

PERSONALS

FOUR KILLED AS TRUCKS COLLIDE

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 21.—Four persons were killed and 21 others were injured and burned, three critically, when two trucks, one loaded with inflammable alcohol, collided on the Philadelphia-pk three miles north of here, early today, overturned and burst into flames.

The dead were: Henry Cummings, 27; Daniel Mahoney, 20, and Francis Jackson, 25, all of Chester, and an unidentified woman. They were trapped in the blazing wreckage of the truck in which they were returning from a picnic.

An explosion showered the victims with flaming gasoline and alcohol as they sought to escape.

Equipoise Nearing Money Winning Record

One of the greatest horses the American turf ever has known, C. V. Whitney's Equipoise is steadily mounting in the scale of money winners and before the season is over may stand at the top, even eclipsing the record of the great Sun Beau, who won a total of $376,774 in purses. Equipoise, or "Ekky," as he is affectionately known to turf fans, started his winning ways as a maiden two-year-old at the Bowie, Md., track in 1931. In all, he has started 39 times and has been first past the post on 24 of them. His last victory in the Wilson Stakes at Saratoga, early this month, brought his total winnings to $297,170.

LOCAL OUTFITS BEATEN TWICE AT LANCASTER

Circleville Oils Drop Extra-Inning Contest, Rally Defeats Sluggers.

Circleville's recreation ball team did not do so well at Lancaster Sunday afternoon dropping two games. The Utica Independents were the winners.

Circleville Oils took on the Utica in the first game and had them beat 5-3, entering the ninth inning. Some loose outfield play permitted two runs to score to tie up the game, a splendid throw to the plate by Art Steele at third base cutting off a run which would have ended the ball game right there.

Eve Merriman's hit sent in a run for the Oils in the first of the tenth but the Lancaster boys scored two runs with two out in their half to win.

Leroy Oliver tossed them for the Oils with Pickering the Lancaster pitcher. Binkley a former local boy caught for the Utica outfit.

The Oil lineup was: Oliver, p.; Robinson, c.; Wallace, 1b.; Purcell, 2b.; Merriman, ss.; Steele, 3b.; Heeter, lf.; Parks, cf.; Peters, rf.

In the second game a combined Slugger-Bulldog team lost 6-2 after leading until the eighth inning. Eddie Callahan had the Utica nine under his thumb in the first seven innings but they broke out with plenty of base-bingles in the eighth to score all their runs.

The local lineup was Callahan, p.; Brannon, c.; Trimmer, 1b.; Strawser, 2b.; Hickey, ss.; Stevens, 3b.; Moore, lf.; Watson, cf.; Thompson, rf.

The Panthers defeated Jay Henry's team, 8-4, on the Commons Sunday afternoon. The oil men just can't stand the speed of the younger athletes.

member of the state civil service commission; C. P. McFadden, president of the Steubenville Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Ralph Benedum of East Liverpool; Anton Hochevar of Bridgeport, representing the Belmont County Educational and Political association, and Marie Krim of Martins Ferry.

Mrs. Nolan took charge of her husband's campaign headquarters today to greet eastern Ohio visitors and all others arriving here.

A meeting of Democratic leaders is scheduled for Tuesday night, when efforts will be made to reach a tentative agreement in advance about the chairmanship, but Nolan asserted he will not be bound by its decision.

"I'll go to the caucus, but only briefly," he asserted, "as I do not intend to be removed from the race before the vote is taken Thursday."

Senator Bulkley and his supporters had not arrived here today. Reports that the senator might later shift his support to Burr Gwonger, Cleveland Democratic leader, could not be verified.

Former Chairman Brunner, who resigned to become state manager of the home owners' loan corporation, thus far has refused to state whom he favors and is expected also to declare his neutrality.

OHIOAN DROWNS

MONTICELLO, Ind., Aug. 21.—David Jones, 32, of Oak Hill, Ohio, was drowned in Lake Shaler, north of here, while diving.

Daily Drama

By International News Service.
 The hero—Lor Gehrig, Yankee. Hit two homers, made four other hits and drove in seven runs as New York won twin bill from Chicago Sox.

The goat—Shortstop Levey, Browns. Made bad throw on Schulte's grounder, setting the stage for Washington's 2 to 1 victory in the ninth inning over St. Louis.

BRAVES' DRIVE LOOP FEATURE, BEAT PIRATES

Boston Team In Virtual Tie For Second Place; Washington Gaining.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—So they took the $50,000 and bought a winning ball club.

That seems to be the story of those amazing Boston Braves who came from nowhere in the National league until today they are in a virtual tie for second place with the Pittsburgh Pirates, seven and a half games behind the New York Giants. Since August 1 the Braves have won 15 out of 19 games.

What was the matter with the Braves had more angles than a jig-saw puzzle until they wheeled the bag of gold over to Philadelphia and exchanged it for Whitney and Lee, a couple of seeking geese, who made healthy hits grow where nothing but foul balls seemed to thrive before.

Whitney, third baseman, made the Braves infield click and with Lee in the left garden the tribe got some much needed hitting.

The new deal worked wonders all around. Indeed, for Wes Schulmerich, who with Knothe, was thrown in along with the $50,000 just to sweeten the pot, he proved a hitting sensation in Philadelphia's band box park. He only hit .250 with Boston in 1932 but in Philly his high clinic drop over the fence.

REPEAT PIRATES

Whitney got three hits and Lee two yesterday as the Bostonians beat the Pirates, 5 to 4, in 11 innings and then came back in the vesper to triumph again, 8 to 1. Wally Berger sent out his 21st home run of the season in the first game and Ben Cartwell's win in the night-capper was his seventeenth pitching success.

Mal Schumacher achieved his 14th victory in chasing the Chicago Cubs with seven hits. The score was 6 to 1 and gave the Giants the biggest lead they have enjoyed since they ascended even themselves by first taking the league lead.

Washington's Senators flattened the St. Louis Browns twice, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1, extending their winning streak to 13 games. George Blaeholder lost a pitching set-to in the opener to Earl Whitehall and Reynolds' fumble of Manush's single in the fifth sent Washington ahead in the finale.

Lou Gehrig got his homers No. 21 and 22 and his pals whacked 26 more blows as the New York Yankees humbled the Chicago Sox twice, 14 to 3 and 11 to 3. Allen Uhle were the winning mound gents.

MANY FEARED LOST IN SEA

Storm Sweeps Eastern Coast Carrying Several To Death; Toll Now 8.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—Over tumbling seas strewn with the wreckage of small sailing craft, coast guard ships and airplanes today pressed a hunt for additional victims of a real storm which hurtled down on the New Jersey and Long Island coasts, taking the lives of at least eight persons kicking up mountainous seas and playing havoc with fishing and pleasure craft.

Exact number of dead was still uncertain early today. Thirty-one vessels were accounted for this morning and at least 300 persons had been brought in to the Cape May coast guard station. But six more boats were still reported missing, and it was feared the death toll from the storm would mount to ten or more.

The northeast, breaking suddenly, spent most of its fury along the Jersey coast from Atlantic City to Ocean City, after battering the Long Island shore and coastal section. Along the Jersey coast, small craft were picked up and tossed ashore like driftwood, battered by mauntainous rollers, or overturned before they could seek shelter.

Scores of thrilling rescues were reported along the coast.

RIVER PROJECT BEING SPEEDED

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 21.—Efforts were being made today to speed work on the construction of two new locks and a dam in the Ohio river at Gallipolis, Ohio.

Determined to get the work under way as soon as possible, federal engineers in the Charleston sub-office have transferred four draftsmen and engineers from the Huntington district office to complete plans and specifications.

The Gallipolis project will be constructed at a cost of $2,000,000 to the federal government.

Canal For Washington

OLYMPIA, Wash.—All Western Washington will become a huge island if plans here are accomplished to dredge a canal from Olympia to the Columbia River. Puget Sound extends to this midstate city and a low altitude features the general level to the Columbia. A canal would also be constructed to Grays Harbor.

TIME IS ONLY A MEASURE PROGRESS IS LIFE

THAT mighty panorama of the world's work, The Century of Progress at Chicago, provides a means for retrospection through which we may look back and take stock of the achievements of the past.

In Kaleidoscopic form we see the transition from the ox-cart to aviation; from the telephone to television; from the telegraph to telephoto; the strides of science, invention and exploration into the mysteries of the sea, the land and the stratosphere.

It's an inventory of the century's progress . . . a reminder that progress is incessant; an inspiration to carry on. And as we face forward again we see Opportunity as our guide beckoning us to follow in his train to greater achievement. It's a challenge to knowledge, to vision, to ingenuity.

It spurs men on to quicken their pace to keep abreast of march and it inspires youth to key their energies and talents and bents to win laurels in the open fields ahead.

It broadens vision. It proves that the dreamers are actually the doers . . . the inventors, scientists, explorers find ways of turning what is apparently intangible into things that are practical to better living and a higher culture.

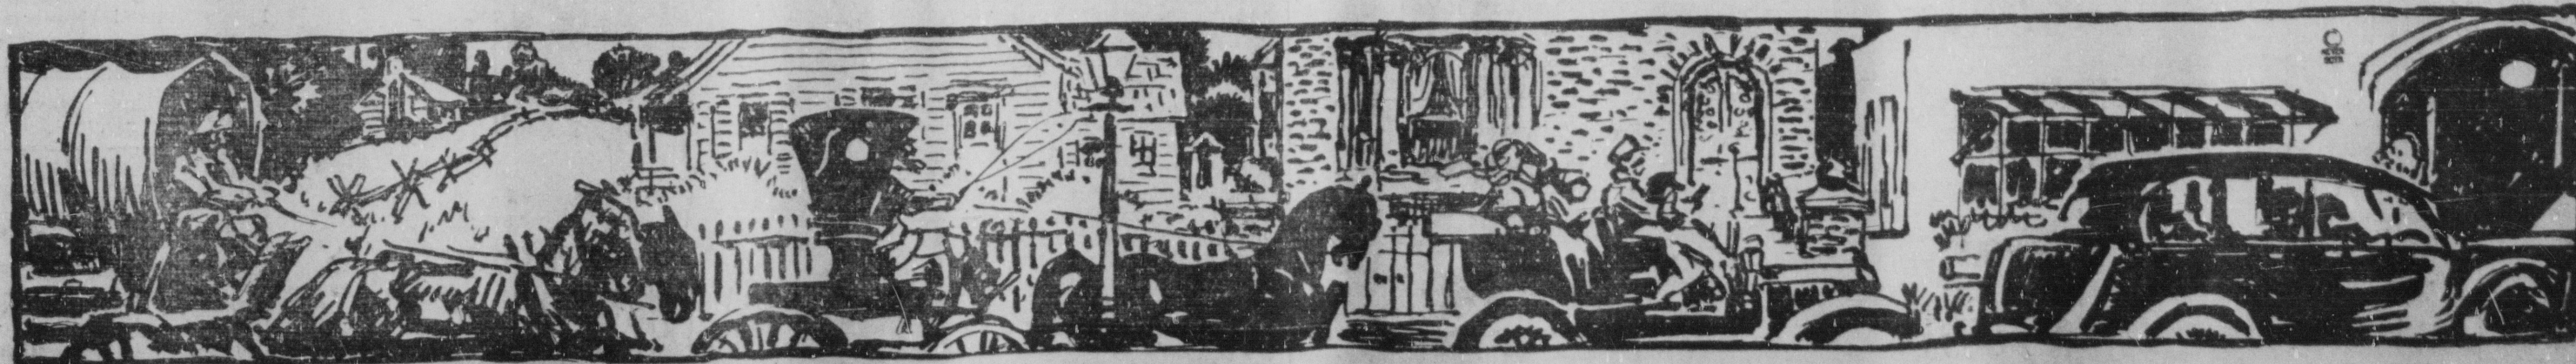

Let's hear no more talk of inertia, industrial stagnancy, sparsity of opportunity. The denial is before us. The world moves on and every mile post is a goal to some accomplishment. The past is inspirational. The present is promise. These say to us 'chins up, chest out, square your shoulders, adjust your affairs and Forward March.'

Sex and the Talkies

FEW observers, it is believed, will go as far as a certain chair theater operator who believes that an excess of sex in the films is causing many parents to break their children of the "movie" habit, but most of them will concede that sex is often badly handled by Hollywood and that the producers are largely at fault when theater attendance falls off.

Modern parents are too liberal and tolerant too much censoring for their progeny. Those who place limitations on their children's attendance at the "talkies" do so for other reasons than cinema faults. Moreover, it seems that among one's acquaintances the severest critics of the films are those who seldom if ever see a picture and who are childless. Imagination takes the place of reality with them.

However, this matter of sex is but a detail. If fewer people are going to the "movies," it is because they have found that the realization too seldom comes up to the expectation. There are too many mediocre or worse pictures interspersed with the excellent to make it a good gamble for the film fan.

Mass production has been introduced in the motion picture industry, with the apparent result that quality is being sacrificed for quantity. It is a pity that the industry, with everything in the world to work for, is producing so few cinema classics.

Thus it would appear that the financial backers of the producers, if they are—as it is reported—interesting themselves in what their money is producing, could not do better than to modify a practice under which scenarios are accepted, not because they are good, but because maximum production must be maintained.

Rheumatism may have been Nature's first primitive effort to establish a weather bureau.

High Toll

EXPERIENCE proves that most industrial eye accidents are preventable, yet statistics prove that industrial accidents are the cause of 15 per cent of all blindness in the United States. This frightful toll of blindness gives pause for sober thought.

This situation seems the more appalling because of the gratifying progress made against blindness resulting from infant diseases. In 20 years blindness from this source has been reduced by one-half. It is manifest that this important work has just begun.

When one reflects upon the enormous number of babies who are either born blind or become so shortly after birth, and upon the high rate of industrial blindness, a realization of the importance of the preventive work dawns on the mind.

That this work should be offset and rendered in a large degree nugatory by carelessness in handling industrial machinery seems tragic indeed; that it should be spoiled by improper or defective machinery seems too horrible to think about.

Much depends on this generation whether the next must carry the tremendous burden of a large blind population due to the carelessness of workers or the criminal negligence of employers.

Confiscation of property is wicked bolshevism. The nice way is to make the tax too high and then take it for taxes.

Evolution isn't finished, and centuries from now electric chairs may be valuable only as period furniture.

Lie: A conception seven parts imagination, and three parts yellow streak.

Naughtiness is not more prevalent than of yore. It is just less sneaking.

Human nature is the same at all ages. A baby's first yell means "gimme."

Americanism: Paying a dollar down; walking out like a landlord who has just collected the rent.

"STOLEN LOVE"

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

COPYRIGHT BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts in a house long run to seed. Joan, lonely and impressionable, falls in love with Bill Martin, whose social status is far beneath her own. The aunts plan to send her away to school. Bill is arrested, the innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, and Joan frantically asks her aunts for her railroad ticket so she can sell it to obtain money to bail him out. Joan confesses her love for Bill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XI.

The things that Aunt Evvie said were lost on Joan. She hardly heard them. Just a word here and there "... disgrace ... after all we've done for you ... brought you up so carefully ... sacrificed ... a common greasy mechanic ... Jailbird ..."

What did it matter what Evvie said? What did it matter what anyone said? Nothing mattered but Bill, and Bill was in prison and nobody to help.

Her back was against the wall. Nothing left to lose, everything to gain. She fought as she had never fought before in all her seventeen dominated years. She had defied Aunt Evvie, smashed her power. She'd been fighting, fighting her way to Bill, and then they'd be married, and go off somewhere together, hand in hand ... they two, against the world ...

Even when she knew that Aunt Evvie wouldn't give up the ticket she didn't despair. There was twelve dollars, she'd take that ... borrow the rest somewhere ... maybe Captain Horner ...

Aunt Evvie saw she was losing. Joan was slipping through her fingers. Escaping her. She was deaf to reason, deaf to threats, she had no pride to sear ...

"Very well," she said at last. Her rumbling bass was ominous quiet. "I've done my best. Now, I give up."

Joan's mouth that had been set and stony, twitched. She leaned against the wall, suddenly tired, more tired than she had even been before. The floor seemed to rock under her feet, a dozen black-browed Aunt Evvies went whirling under her drooping eyes.

"I'm so—so sick!" she said in a small, surprised voice.

"You'll be sicker before I'm through with you. And it's your own fault. You were going East to Belle, a good, fortunate girl. Now you've made that impossible. You're still going—"

"I'm not!" Joan fought the dizziness to snap the answer still defiantly.

"All right then, you're not," Evvie's tone was ominously quiet again. "I shall not argue. You made one choice for yourself, now there is just one more left for you to make. Either you go to Belle with a letter which I consider it my duty to write her, or you go to the reform school. Take your choice."

"I won't go," Joan said, "I won't go!"

"You can't fight her, Evvie—she's like Veronica," Babe whispered. "Oh, be reasonable, sister. Don't you see she doesn't care? No pride ... like Veronica. Oh please, we don't want another scandal ... Evvie, where are you going?"

"I am going," Evvie said, "to send for someone from the Juvenile Court. Thank heaven, Joan is still under age."

"Evvie—you wouldn't—" Babe quavered. "Oh, Evvie!"

There was no mistaking Evvie's purpose. It showed in every line of her set, square jaw, every inch of her stiff tailored shirt-waist and uncompromising black alpaca skirt. Evvie made no idle threats.

Out of her old-fashioned pocket she pulled a little fat gold watch. "It is five minutes past eight," she said. "I will give Joan three minutes to make her choice. If I'm going to be disgraced by your conduct,

I'm going to be disgraced doing my duty. Either you give me your word of honor to go quietly to the train without attempting to see this person again—or at eight minutes past eight I shall take the first train to ... to have you brought before the Juvenile Court."

Heavy eyed, hardly comprehending at first, Joan looked from one to the other. Reform School. Then she would be powerless to help Bill ... separated ... never to meet again ...

The fat gold watch ticked off the seconds. Aunt Evvie shifted impatiently. Now that her mind was made up she was anxious to be off, have it over with. Would the girl ever speak?

And just before the minute hand came to the little dot that was the eight minute mark, Joan surrendered. Complete, ignominious, unconditional surrender.

"I'll go on the train," she said, on a blue apron. She waved a skinny wrist. But Aunt Babe, on the front porch, felt too ill to wave. She just stood there, watching the car disappear down the hill. She had made up her mind to have another "nervous spell."

The little brown trunk that had been Grandfather Van Fleet's had gone on ahead. There was just the little handbag for Joan to carry.

Aunt Evvie parked the car, took the key out carefully, and dropped it into her purse. "Come, come—the ferry is in. Joan—move!"

So they got on the ferry. They passed Alcatraz Island ... that bleak prison on the rocks above the sea. "Where are the other prisons—for people who aren't soldiers or sailors?" she asked very low.

"I don't know—now you stop moaning about that!"

They passed the docks, where foreign ships lay moored with cables, that glittered in the sun. Now they were passing the river boats.

Bill was in prison and nobody to help ...

so low that Aunt Evvie wasn't sure she heard right.

"What's that. Speak up."

"I said I'll go on the train."

"Without trying to see that—that jailbird again?"

Joan nodded. The tears that rushed from her despairing eyes choked and blinded her. Paroxysms of hoarse, racking sobs shook her. As Evvie's heavy hand ached to do.

"And you will go quietly, and not make any trouble?"

"Yes—"

"Then for mercy's sake, go wash your face!" Evvie concluded savagely. "Standing there crying like that—without even trying to cover your face ... I declare I don't think you have any pride or decency at all!" Evvie was not a generous victor.

Joan groped her way out of the room. She had no answer. Neither had she any pride ... nothing ... but love, for Bill ...

There wasn't a minute to lose. They had to get the eleven o'clock boat to connect with the Overland train from San Francisco. Evvie wanted to be there early. She had her stiff black hat, and her new veil with the black dots, on already.

"Hurry! Hurry!" she called, impatiently. "Move! Dear me, but you're slow!"

Joan's numb fingers were all thumbs. When she forced her tired feet into the brown oxfords that she was so proud of yesterday, she could hardly tie the laces.

The little stiff white shirt-waist, looking like a younger sister of Aunt Evvie's stiffer one, rattled starchy over her shoulders, and she couldn't find the collar button.

"Hurry! Joan—I declare you're trying to be exasperating!" But Joan only looked at her vacantly, and in the end Evvie had to put the new round straw hat on her head, and button the square little towel over the white waist.

They got into Evvie's chequered car. Healey was leaning out of the kitchen window, wiping red hands keep their children off the streets on this day.

Saturday should be a good day for those whose birthday falls on the dates between June 25 and July 7. The day will be a little disconcerting to those born January 31 or August 4.

Children born April 17 or 18, July 20, October 21 should be very cautious in all they do this entire week. The same applies to those born September 2 and February 28.

Children born the first two days of the week are likely to be very talented, with good intuition, independent and original. The girls are likely to marry early in life.

Those born a little later in the week are likely to suffer somewhat from an inferiority complex and parents should try to eradicate this as early as possible. They will have the inclination to see the world through dark colored glasses.

Tuesday will not be a good day to conduct any kind of mail order business or to write any important letter.

Wednesday should be a good day for all those who deal in farm products. Also a good day for the oil business.

Thursday should bring some interesting events connected with college shipping, law courts and in the field of science.

On Friday you can look for some interesting events connected with the stock market so beware that you do not get caught with the wrong kind of stock. Recklessness will be the rule on this day. Drive carefully and watch the other fellow also. Parents should now they were coming into the slip. The clock on the Ferry Building showed ten minutes past ten.

"Now you sit here, and wait!" Aunt Evvie said sternly when they were off the ferry, and in the ladies' waiting room, near the telephone booths.

Joan sat, very quietly, in the exact spot Aunt Evvie picked out, with the little bag at her feet. You would hardly have recognized her for the flaming, joyous, golden thing who stood with flying skirts on the windy, sun-kissed hill, with arms outstretched to Bill.

She was a light gone out. A mere ghost of girl, with a pathetic sensitive mouth, and dark tragic eyes that ill matched the round school girl hat with its little fluttering ribbon bow.

She might have run away in those few moments Evvie was gone, but she had a better idea. She kept turning it over in her mind. It was the one thing that kept her from absolute despair. Trains stopped often on the way, and the first time this train stopped, she'd get off ... and come back ... to Bill ...

"Come—it's time to go!" Aunt Evvie was back. With her was a square-set, sweet faced woman in a long blue coat. "So this is the little girl?" the lady said.

Joan stood up. "This is Mrs. Marden, Joan. She is from the Traveler's Aid and she is going on your train. She'll take care of you."

"My berth is right next to yours. Isn't that nice?" Mrs. Marden smiled.

The train was crowded. It was hot, too.

Joan crouched in her corner, looking steadily out of the window with dim, unseeing eyes. The California country sped by. Cattle. Farms. Chicken ranches, with blue-aproned women scattering feed to white heads. Rivers. Tall land. Sun.

Every turn of the wheels was taking her further from Bill. Every minute measured nearly a mile she'd have to walk back.

guine tigers and other beasts of the jungle—all ferocious and as anxious to leap at their protector's throat as at their train's. But the drama is barely concerned with the activities of the animals, leaning more toward the reactions of humans to the oppressive circumstances found in life itself.

AT THE CLIFTONA

A new type of musical film entertainment is presented in "Melody Cruise" at the Cliftona Theatre, which is destined to be the forerunner of a new era of film musicals, believes Phil Harris, internationally celebrated radio favorite featured with Charlie Ruggles and Greta Nissen.

Harris, who has been broadcast for four years from the famous Coconut Grove in Los Angeles, opines that "Melody Cruise" pictures life as people live it. A person's every action—walking, talking, playing, eating—is done in rhythm, he claims, and the film expands the musical dialogue which interlock with the rhythmic dialogue.

Bronchitis Is Too Often Neglected

It Quickly Becomes Chronic and May Cause Other Ills

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

TO TAKE stock of ourselves once in a while is a good thing to do. No doubt many of you suffer from certain disorders yet you pay little attention to them. If you have no pain or marked discomfort, you never think of your body.

This is unwise. Many ailments are painless yet when neglected they do great damage to the body. Attended to at the proper time they are a rotten rid of, as they should be.

It is probable that of all the chronic diseases, bronchitis is the one most often overlooked. This is unfortunate. Continued neglect of chronic bronchitis may lead to serious disorders of the heart, lungs and other organs.

Common in Middle Age

As its name implies, chronic bronchitis is a persistent inflammation of the bronchial tubes. It is a common affliction of middle age, but may occur in young adults and in children.

It usually follows a winter cold and cough and continues through the winter months. Severe cases may last all the year.

The sufferer from chronic bronchitis has difficulty in breathing. He complains of shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion. There is a constant wheezing in the chest and the patient is made uncomfortable by a hacking and persistent cough.

Spasmodic attacks of coughing is a common complaint in this annoying disorder. The face becomes red, purple and the victim is only relieved when he "brings up" large amounts of mucus.

Weakens the Heart

As a rule, repeated violent attacks of coughing leave the sufferer in a weakened and exhausted state. The severe coughing and hacking place a strain upon the muscles of the heart. Indeed, most sufferers from chronic bronchitis have enlargement of the heart. Eventually the heart muscle weakens and then signs of heart failure appear.

If you suffer from chronic bronchitis do not accept it as a trivial ailment. Consult with your physician. Follow his directions and advice. It is a disease that ought not to be neglected.

Answers to Health Queries

J. P. K. Q—I have "itching" spots which seem to attack different parts of the body, keeping up for half an hour or more at a time. There is no sign of a rash. What would you advise?

A.—This may be due to nervousness. For further instructions send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

E. M. C. Q.—What do you advise for falling hair? 2.—What causes head noises?

A.—Brush the hair daily and use a good tonic. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question. 2. This is often due to nasal catarrh which has extended to the middle ear.

ASLEEP ON RAILS

BUTTE, Mont.—George Andrews, 27, went to sleep on a railroad track. Members of a train crew saw him lying between the rails too late to stop the train. After the train passed over him they rushed back to pick up the corpse. Instead Andrews stood up. The nine inches of clearance between roadbed and the axles of the train saved him from death.

Boy Scout News

TEENY NC. 107

The troop has been very busy lately in getting organized in its new quarters. The troop council held a meeting Aug. 16. It made discipline and attendance rules. Any scout who misbehaves will have to help clean headquarters under the charge of the custodian (scout). Any scout who misses two meetings in succession without a good excuse may be expelled from the troop. The council decided such a penalty.

The troop will scrape through reorganization period and then start rebuilding its treasury.

A hike sale under the direction of the council will be held at the city building Sept. 2.

The troop was scheduled to give a scouting demonstration at Tarleton Aug. 18 but rain foreclosed the activities.

The troop has been practicing tent pitching, drilling and various other activities.

Some of the boys have been doing in work at the Berger hospital grounds.

It is hoped that the troop will be able to install its regular program next Friday. The program includes a half hour of business, a half hour of drill, a half hour of play, and a half hour for a council meeting.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

A YOUNG chap that was going to a journalism school had a girl that he was going to marry.

She wasn't so sure about it though. She had tried to get the boy interested in some kind of practical work, but he sat around and wrote poems or letters to the editors that got printed but didn't get paid for.

"When are you going to marry me?" he says one day.

"I don't know. Have you started writing for money yet?"

"Why sure I've been writing for money a long time now. The only trouble is that my dad won't answer my letters any more. What's that got to do with it?"

RETAIL MERCHANTS NOTICE ON COTTON

Persons or firms engaged in dry goods, general merchandising, department-store business and others conducting retail stores where articles made from cotton are sold, are informed that a processing tax has been imposed by the Agricultural Adjustment Act. All retail merchants who have in stock in retail establishment articles processed wholly or in chief value from cotton are required to make a return showing quantity in weight of such articles on hand at close of business August 31, 1933.

The provision of the law imposing the tax allows the retailer 30 days after the effective date, which was August 1, 1933, within which to dispose of his retail stocks, before the tax attaches. Cotton articles purchased between the dates of August 1, and August 31, may be deducted from weight of such articles in stock at close of business August 31. The difference will represent taxable weight on hand August 1 which remained in stock and unsold as of last day of August. The tax rate has been established at .04184 cents per pound (little less than four and one-half cents per pound) on the net cotton content after allowance is made for non-cotton materials.

Any retailer who may be effected by this tax and who has not received P. T. 42 for report-

ILLINOIS BEER TAX

CHICAGO—Legal beer taxes will net Illinois a profit of $2,000,000 within the year if the estimate of Administrative Auditor Daniel Sullivan holds true. He reported taxes since April 7, when the state first permitted 5 1/2 sales revenue from that source amounted to $900,000.

The official delegate and alternate from Pickaway-co to the meeting are: Dr. C. G. Stewart and Dr. H. D. Jackson.

Others from this county planning to take part in the meeting, either as essayists, discussants, or members of committees are: Dr. C. C. Kirk and Dr. A. T. Hopwood, both of the Orient institution.

CLASS OF 1921 HAS REUNION SATURDAY

The graduating class of 1921 of Circleville high school held its third annual reunion Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Valentine of the Ringgold pk.

Miss Hulda Seyfert was chairman of the affair which proved to be one of unusual interest. Mrs. Tom Renick was chairman of the program committee and was assisted by Emmitt L. Crist, Melvin Yates, Miss Henrietta Stocklen and Mrs. Blanche Mutschman.

At seven o'clock the group assembled in the spacious dining room and found their places marked with dainty hand painted place cards at the handsomely appointed banquet table which was centered with a huge bowl of blue delphinium and white asters carrying out the color of the class.

Hunter Chambers at the piano and Marion Sensenbrenner, baritone led the group in the singing of the Red and Black, school song of C. H. S.

A toast card was passed among the guests and each in turn responded with a clever toast.

At the close of the sumptuous three course dinner, the class retired to the living room where they were graciously entertained by two class members who have recently become known through their radio broadcasts, Marion Sensenbrenner, baritone, and Hunter Chambers, pianist. Mr. Sensenbrenner delighted his audience with his splendid rendition of the following numbers, "In An Old Fashioned Town," the Scotch ballad "Roamin' in the Gloamin'" and two delightful encores.

Miss Seyfert read an interesting letter from a former teacher in C. H. S., Miss Myrtle Cunningham.

The next number, a test in psychology was introduced by Mrs. Renick, and the concluding number proved to be an interesting game of sea warfare on paper under the supervision of Emmitt Crist.

The class elected Mr. Crist chairman for arrangements for the 1934 reunion.

A large percentage of the former class were unable to be present. Those attending from a distance include Harvey Clendenin, Ashland, Ky.; Byron Frederick, Marysville; Lee Riley, Belleville, Ill.; and from this city were Mary Callahan Cast, Hunter Chambers, Emmitt Crist, Walter Heise, Walter Jones, Frances Mason, Blanche Young, Mutschman, Russell, Palm, Frances Boecher, Renick, Marion Sensenbrenner, Hulda Seyfert, Henrietta Stocklen, Walter Stout and Russell Valentine.

GUESTS AT PARTY IN CHILLICOTHE

Mrs. D. K. Ludford and daughter, Geraldine, and Mrs. Earl Imler, this city were among the twenty guests invited to a shower given at the home of Mrs. Edward Short of Chillicothe Friday evening. The affair honored Mrs. Ludford's daughter, Mrs. J. E. Acord, of Chillicothe, formerly Francis Ludford of this city. Cards and dancing were diversions of the evening and were concluded when refreshments were served.

Mr. Adkins is the youngest of thirteen children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Barzill Adkins and a brother of Common Pleas Judge Joseph W. Adkins. He has been superintendent of schools at Aurora, Minn. for the past several years and is well known through this county. He is a brother of Mrs. H. C. Renick, Mrs. Maud Davis and George G. Adkins, this city, and John Adkins of near Grange Hall.

HENRY-METZGER REUNION ATTENDED BY FIFTY

The annual Henry and Metzger reunion held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Immell of Andersonville, assembled approximately fifty relatives and friends of the two families.

A basket dinner at the noon hour was followed by a pleasant afternoon spent in games and conversation. The 1933 officers were re-elected in charge of Forrest Liston, of Dayton, president; Byron Bolender, this city, vice president, and Frances Metzger, Columbus, secretary-treasurer.

Enjoying the day were Mr. and Mrs. Immell and family and Mrs. Katie West and daughter, Twila, of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sampson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Liston and daughters, Helen and Bernice, Willis Liston, Miss Louise Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bolender and daughter, Martha, Ellen and son, David, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Liston and sons, Robert and Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wardell and son, Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wardell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wardell Jr., and daughter, Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Evron Downs and family and Mrs. Mame Groom, this city.

Mrs. James Metzger and daughter, Marjory, of Santa Anna, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Phillip Denison and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Liston and daughters, Virginia and Marilyn of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dawson and daughter, Rebecca Ann and son, Richard of Plain City; Miss Frances Metzger and John Metzger Jr. and Miss Ida Wardell of Columbus; Rev. and Mrs. Abels and family of Richmond, and Joseph Bause of Ashville.

OVER FIFTY ATTEND ORR FAMILY REUNION

Over fifty members of the Orr family and also a number of guests attended the thirteenth annual reunion of that group Sunday, Aug. 20. The day was a splendid one for the affair which was held at the picturesque Concord church grounds situated on Londonderry-pk, Route 50, southeast of Chillicothe.

At noon a basket lunch of sumptuous food was placed on several long tables under the sheltering trees, many of which were planted by early ancestors of those assembled for the day.

James H. Orr, president of the family organization called the gathering to order and presided over the business session which followed. The secretary, Mrs. Dennis H. Dresbach called the roll.

An interesting history of the Orr family was read by Mrs. W. K. Orr. In her notes Mrs. Orr related how the Orr family came to America from Ireland settling in Virginia thence to Ohio, their covered wagon being the fifth one to bring settlers into territory west of Wheeling, W. Va.

Historical happenings of family life were related by J. W. Rittenour, Mrs. Hattie M. Ellis, James Orr, John Purdum, Carl Hurst, Mrs. David N. Bennett and Atty. Dwight L. Withgott.

Dr. Melvin Dresbach, of Albany Medical college, Albany, N. Y., was introduced and he responded with appropriate greetings.

Original poems were read by L. J. Hurst of Columbus. Family photographs and albums of early pioneer ancestors were brought for identification by several of the members.

Officers elected for the coming year were as follows: James H. Orr, president; Mrs. Paul A. Johnson, secretary; James H. Orr, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. A. Dane Ellis, Mrs. Carl Hurst and O. J. Smith, committee for 1934 reunion.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Orr, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Miss Carrie Orr, Miss Dora Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Withgott, Edward Orr, John Purdum and children, Mary Anne, Martha and Charles and guest of Chillicothe.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Hurst and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hurst and son, Harry, of Williamsport; C. R. Withgott, Miss Marie Withgott and Mr. Preston, of Springfield, L. J. Hurst and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Purdum of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Dane Ellis and son, Robert, this city; Dr. Melvin Dresbach, of Albany, N. Y.; Ellery Dresbach and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Yapple of Hallsville.

THOMAS-VANBUSKIRK REUNION IS SUNDAY

Ninety-two relatives and friends from Mt. Sterling, Columbus, Westerville, Marysville, Grove City, Derby, Orient, Newport, Circleville, Ashville, New Holland, Washington C. H., Leesburg, Dayton, Cedarville, Ploua, Athens, Ames, Iowa, and St. Petersburg, Fla., attended the thirtieth annual reunion of the Thomas-VanBuskirk families held in the Adam Bailey grove, Monroe-tw-p, Sunday.

Following a bountiful dinner, a very enjoyable social afternoon was spent. Interesting talks were given by Dr. Martin, Mrs. Davis and R. S. Thomas and messages read from relatives in Indiana and Kansas.

During a short business session at which R. G. Colville, president, presided, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Walter Bailey, president; Mrs. W. A. Downing, vice president; Walter Bins, recording secretary; Frances Corkwell, corresponding secretary, and Andrew Thomas, treasurer.

Relatives from this city in attendance were Mrs. Everett Thomas and sons, Andrew and Robert, Mrs. G. H. Colvill, Miss Clara Southward and Robert G. Colville and sons, George and Frederick.

RADER REUNION HELD NEAR KINGSTON SUNDAY

Approximately seventy persons enjoyed the Rader family reunion held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wood Immell near Kingston. A basket dinner at the noon hour was followed by a happy afternoon spent in games.

Officers were elected in charge of the 1934 reunion. S. G. Rader was named president; Thomas Rader, honorary president; Mrs. Lloyd Reiterman, vice president, and Phyllis Rader, secretary and treasurer.

Attending the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Florence Rader and children, Phyllis, Neal, Christine and Faye, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reiterman and son, Raymond, of Waverly; Mr. and Mrs. Porter Rader and children, Robert and Mary of Portsmouth; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reiterman and son, Glenn, of Chillicothe; Mrs. Lois Halsey and children, Jane and Carl of Lancaster; Miss Gertrude Rader, of Columbus; Mrs. Joseph Black and daughter, Vivian of New Orleans.

Mrs. Nettie Rader, Mr. and Mrs. Burr Rader, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright, Miss Gladys Rader, Glenn Rader and son, Dudley, Mrs. Cora Hood and son, John, Mary Elizabeth Rader, Viva Rader, James Rader, Mr. and Mrs. J. IT TAKES
HEALTHY NERVES
TO FLY EIGHT DAYS AND NIGHTS
WITHOUT A STOP

● FRANCES MARSALIS AND LOUISE THADEN set the world's endurance flight record for women when they brought their plane down at Curtiss Field, Long Island, after flying more than 196 hours without a stop through fog, rain, blinding sun, and pitch-black night.

● IN ADDITION to their astounding endurance flight, Miss Marsalis (Left) and Miss Thaden hold many other flying records. Miss Marsalis is the women's champion stunt flyer of the world. It takes healthy nerves to fly...doubly so to fly like these two young women. It is significant that both are enthusiastic Camel smokers.

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

MISS THADEN says: "Flying is a terrific strain at times. I frankly don't know what I should do without cigarettes. But I've found that different cigarettes have different effects on my nerves. For some years I've smoked Camels. They taste better. They're much milder. And I've noticed that they never upset my nerves."

MISS MARSALIS says: "I started smoking Camels because most of my friends who were flyers seemed to prefer them. I've never changed because I can't afford to take chances with my nervous system."

Camel's costlier tobaccos do make a difference...in taste, in mildness. They never jangle the nerves. Your taste and your nerves will confirm this. Turn to Camels.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. You will find Camels rich in flavor and delightfully mild.

● WHAT A THRILL! And how a good smoke adds to its enjoyment! Light up a cigarette. And for the sake of your nerves, make it a Camel...the milder cigarette that's made from costlier tobaccos.

High Old Liquor Taxes to Be in Operation When Repeal Goes Through

WASHINGTON — If the Eighteenth Amendment is swept out of the Constitution before January, the New Dealers will be in a jam on liquor taxes. They are not saying anything about it publicly, but some of them think an extra session of Congress may be necessary.

The whole trouble is this; the old liquor taxes are likely to prove too high. They are so high that bootlegging is going to continue.

Here is the way they run: Champagne—12 cents per half-pint; whiskies, brandies, liqueurs—$6 per gallon; wines up to $1 a gallon.

These were enacted in pre-Prohibition days when the drys held sway, and nobody expects the present wet U. S. A. to pay them. So Roosevelt must either reduce or else keep the Prohibition and Coast Guard forces at full strength.

Spend More

It is the sound boast of General Hugh Johnson that he is the man who "started all this budget balancing talk." But, apparently, he has had a change of heart—at least as far as NRA expenditures are concerned.

The other day a certain Democratic leader asked him: "If he contemplated any economies for NRA?"

"I do not" was the emphatic reply. "I'll probably spend more before I spend less."

Neighbors

Whether Congress sits or not, the busiest member of the Senate is Millard Tydings of Maryland. Getting in to see him is almost as difficult as seeing the President of the United States. Callers fill his office and overflow out into the hall. They come for jobs, they come with complaints, they come to borrow money.

The reason: Millard's constituents live only a few blocks away.

A senator from Pennsylvania or Virginia has a bad time enough. But Tydings' time can't compare with Tydings'. He has to make special trips from Baltimore all summer. What increases his work is the fact that he is so efficient in handling it.

But when a lady clerk came from the Internal Revenue Bureau the other day and wanted the Senator to have her boss discharged because he insisted upon opening a window, Millard threw up his hands and wished he was from distant Wyoming.

Railroad Impasse

Government ownership and ownership of the railroads is getting closer. This is the side-line opinion of Railway Czar Joe Eastman and other Brain Trusters.

One recent factor edging the railroads in this direction is the row with the Big Executives over buying increased equipment and hiring more men.

Eastman has told them to buy new rolling stock, keep their roads and machine shops up. He has pointed to the I. C. C. report that recently these have lagged woefully behind.

But the Executives have said no. They have told Eastman privately they will not add to their costs until they have increased their income and profits.

The Railway Brotherhoods are demanding that Eastman's edict be carried out. So the Administration is caught from both sides. Yet it is a fact that the roads have not been paying interest on their watered stock, in some cases even on their bonds. But most important of all, the railroads are one of the chief keys to the recovery program.

All this is why government operation looks a little closer.

NOLAN WAGES WAR AGAINST BULKLEY MAN

Stuebenville Man 'Goes Into State' for Democratic Chair

OPPOSES WATSON

Brunner's Job Center of Hot Controversy

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21.—Open war broke out today in the battle for the Democratic state chairmanship as John F. Nolan, Steubenville candidate, left on a hurried vote-getting trip after declaring he was "carrying the fight out into the state" against U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley and his candidate, Dr. Carl Watson of Findlay.

Refusing to reveal his destination, Nolan said he was off on a trip to win more votes for his candidacy in anticipation of the meeting of the state central committee here Thursday when a successor is to be elected to Former Chairman Henry G. Brunner, resigned.

Simultaneously, eastern Ohioans from Steubenville, Martins Ferry, Bridgeport, East Liverpool and St. Clairsville began rallying to his support by making plans to send delegations here.

"FIGHT TO FINISH"

"I am in the fight to the finish and nothing can cause me to withdraw from the race," Nolan said. "I have received assurances of support from unexpected sources over the week-end which give me added confidence."

Although infuriated by a letter sent out by Senator Bulkley Saturday urging committee members to elect Watson, a "dark horse," Nolan said he would not engage in personalities and would not make any charges of any kind against Bulkley.

"The letter which the senator mailed—calling for the election of a man of the highest type, and then recommending Dr. Watson—can only be construed as a direct slap at me," he said. "I was the only candidate in the field," he said.

WHITE IS NEUTRAL

Eastern Ohio delegations are preparing to come to the capital to convince Governor George White and Senator Bulkley of their loyalty to Nolan, it was explained by the Steubenville party chief. Governor White has taken a position of "absolute neutrality."

Congressman Lawrence Imhoff, of St. Clairsville, will be one of the leaders.

Others scheduled to come here, Nolan said, are W. B. Francis of Martins Ferry, newly-appointed (Continued on Page Two)

MISSOURI LATEST IN REPEAL PARADE

Enormous Wet Majorities In Large Cities Provide Three To One Margin.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 21.—Preponderant wet majorities in the cities today clinched Missouri's place under the repeal banner with 21 sister states by a margin of more than 3 to 1.

St. Louis-co voted for nullification of national prohibition by a 20 to 1 majority. Kansas City added its weight to the repeal trend by a 10 to 1 vote. Final but unofficial tabulation of the vote in this city showed 211,742 for repeal to 10,556 opposed.

Throughout the state, the vote was more than 3 to 1 for the 21st amendment to repeal the 18th, partial returns demonstrated. The figures collected from 3,449 precincts of the state's 4,104 gave: For Repeal, 483,416; opposed, 135,389.

Several days will be required to complete the final official count of Saturday's referendum. Many rural precincts were yet to be tabulated.

Two delegates selected from each of the congressional districts will meet Aug. 29, in Jefferson City to formally cast the state's vote for repeal.

BRIDGE SCENE OF HEAD-ON COLLISION

No one was injured at 8:15 p. m. Sunday when a Model T Ford and a Studebaker sedan crashed head-on in the middle of the Walnut-creek bridge, across the Pickaway-co line, north of Circleville.

Names of the occupants of the autos were not learned.

Neighboring farmers aided in clearing away the wrecked cars so that traffic might not be impaired. One-way traffic was in effect while the wreckage was cleared.

Train Falls, 200 Chinese Officers Die

Men Being Conveyed To Kiangsi Front Die In Siao River.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 21.—Two hundred Chinese army officers were killed today when two coaches of a train conveying 500 officers to the Kiangsi front were derailed and plunged over the side of a bridge into the Siao river.

The accident occurred between Kiukiang and Nanchang.

The 500 officers were returning to the Kiangsi front to resume operations against Communist bandits after completing a special course in mountain climbing at Kuling, headquarters of General Chiang Kai-Shek, commander-in-chief of the Chinese armies.

Survivors made desperate attempts to rescue the 200 men trapped in the submerged coaches but were without success. Repair gangs rushed from Hanchang and Kiukiang were unable to raise the coaches in time to save any of the victims.

NEW INCOME TAX LOOMING

White Says Money Must Be Raised For State's Schools This Session.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21.—An income tax for Ohio may be recommended to the state legislature this week as a means of raising $7,000,000 for state-aid schools for this year and next, Governor George White declared today.

Asserting positively that he will have a school program ready to present to the assembly when it completes its poor relief tasks, probably tomorrow or Wednesday, the governor added:

"A state income tax is under consideration as a source for the money for schools. I have not decided whether it will be recommended."

Whether the income tax will be placed in the program probably will be decided at a conference of three members of the "brain trust" which the governor called for this afternoon. Those summoned were Tax Commissioner Carlton Dargusch, Major E. O. Braught, state relief supervisor, and Dr. B. C. Skinner, state director of education.

Beavers' Suicide Motive Uncertain

Leans Against Shotgun Shooting Self Through Chest At Buskirk's.

No reason was advanced today for the suicide of Leonard Beavers, 38, who shot himself to death in the barn of Howard Buskirk, Darby-twp, Saturday morning.

Beavers had been unemployed and went to the Buskirk home last Wednesday asking if he could stay for awhile. Saturday he obtained a shotgun and went to the barn. He played the gun against it pushing the trigger with a stick.

The act was watched by Buskirk's son, aged 8.

The body was taken to the Norris funeral home in Harrisburg to be prepared for burial after Dr. C. E. Bowers, coroner, returned a verdict of suicide.

Beavers is survived by his wife, Mrs. Goldie Beavers, residence unknown; his mother, Mrs. Anna Beavers, of Mt. Sterling; two brothers, Floyd of this city and Taylor of Columbus; and a sister, Mrs. Mary Beeman, also of Columbus.

EARLY MOVE SEEN

County Committee May Have Huge Power

Democratic leaders were of the belief, Monday, that an early announcement would be made of the three persons best qualified to fill the postmastership in this city. Questionnaires, filled out by 18 local persons, are now in the hands of the postmaster general's office and will be carefully studied to determine which three persons, according to business records and a hundred other questions, are best fitted.

When the applications have been properly gone over names of the trio will be sent back to the county committee where a recommendation will be voted. This recommendation, it is thought, will be referred to Congressman Mell G. Underwood who in turn will send it to Washington D. C. when the definite appointment is to be made by Postmaster General James A. Farley.

FOLLOW COMMITTEE?

Mr. Underwood, it is reported, has said he will abide by the committee's recommendation.

The field is wide open at this time, one candidate apparently having as good a chance as another until the questionnaires have been graded paring the field to three.

The list of applications, announced Saturday, includes: Mrs. Bessie Wardell Harper, wife of Dwight C. Harper, E. Main-st.; Lowell M. Brown, Elm-ave, former Pickaway-co juvenile officer; Samuel T. Rife, N. Pickaway-st, school teacher; and secretary of the Democratic executive committee; Thomas W. Brown, W. Union-st, former employee of the county highway department; Howard S. Irwin, S. Washington-st, former deputy sheriff; Mrs. Marion R. Lutz, W. Franklin-st, secretary and stenographer for Richard Simkins, attorney; Clark K. Hunsicker, W. METHODIST MEN'S GROUP WILL VISIT LAKE WEDNESDAY

The meeting of the Methodist Men's club at the summer home of Ed. H. Rausenberger at Buckeye Lake has been definitely set for Wednesday of this week. It was first planned to meet Aug. 30. Members of the club, their families and guests are invited.

Dr. G. D. Phillips, president of the club, urges that a large number of members be present since Mr. Rausenberger invited the organization to meet with him. All are to take their own baskets.

Persons attending may leave at anytime with 7 p. m. set as the time to eat.

TAKES JUDGMENT

Ben H. Gordon, E. Mound-st, recovered a judgment of $105 from Edison Shephermer and others in Judge J. W. Adkins' common pleas court Monday. The money was allegedly due on an account.

After a jury had been waived and briefs were submitted by counsel for the plaintiff and defendant, Judge Adkins ordered the judgment.

COAL, AUTOMOBILE CODES NEARLY COMPLETE AS NRA DRIVE REACHES GREAT PROPORTIONS

Accused of the murder of his pretty wife, Allene, David Lamson, 30-year-old sales manager of the Stanford University press, is scheduled to stand trial at San Jose, Cal., on August 21. Mrs. Lamson's body was found in the bathtub of their home on the campus of Stanford University. She had been bludgeoned to death. Circumstantial evidence resulted in the husband's arrest and indictment. Miss Dolores Roberts, maid in the Lamson home, is expected to be one of the star witnesses at the trial, during which Lamson will be defended by former Congressman Arthur Free. The most pathetic figure in the case is Allene Genevieve Lamson, 2-year-old daughter of the accused man, who was rendered motherless by the tragedy.

College Campus Murder Trial Of Lamson Begins

Sex and Science To Play Important Part In San Jose Court.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 21.—Sex and science, key witnesses, stalk the crowded San Jose courtroom, where David A. Lamson goes on trial today for the murder of his pretty young wife, Allene.

No ordinary murder this. For background, picture the scholarship and social prestige of Stanford University, where David Lamson, brilliant 30-year-old Stanford graduate, held an executive position with the University press.

Of that same background was demure Allene Lamson, Stanford graduate, looking at least 10 years younger than her 28 years, seemingly adored and adoring wife, mother of a three-year-old baby daughter, salaried executive in the University Y. W. C. A.

On May 30, Allene Lamson was murdered or accidentally met her death in the bathroom of their campus home—a home so near that of former President Herbert Hoover that fragrant breezes carry the perfume of flowers from the Hoover estate to the cloistered Lamson garden.

Police Court NRA WORKER TAKES TO AIR

Miss Woods, Ohio Director, To Appear In Many Principal Cities.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—Spreading the NRA gospel from the skies, Miss Mary E. Woods, Ohio director of the National Recovery Act, hopped off from here today for a three-day airplane tour of the state in a hope to corral lagard Ohio employers who have failed to sign NRA pledges.

In a ship piloted by Harry Seiverson, veteran flyer, Miss Woods will touch every large city in the state. She is scheduled to speak at Akron, Canton and Youngstown today, and at a huge rally in Columbus tonight.

According to Miss Woods less than one-third of the total number of employers in the state have given signed agreements to support the NRA blanket code. As she left this city on the whirlwind tour, Miss Woods expressed hope that at least 100,000 more employers would sign pledges before the deadline September 1.

NEW YORK OBTAINS POWER RATE CUTS

Savings of Nine Millions To Consumers Ordered By State Commission.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Metropolitan New York today rejoiced over a public service commission order directing a 6 per cent reduction in rates for electric current, effective Sept. 1, for a period of a year, which will mean a saving of $9,000,000 to consumers.

In New York City, the reduction will be 6 per cent on the bills of five companies supplying electricity. These companies, The New York Edison, United Electric Light and Power, Brooklyn Edison, Queens Electric Light and Power and Bronx Gas and Electric, are controlled by the Consolidated Gas Company.

The public service commission ordered the reductions after discovering the companies had increased their earnings, built up surpluses, paid higher dividends and distributed bonuses and salary increases to officers while most lines of business were experiencing sharp recessions.

Coal Provides Most Difficult Solution

tiles, lumber, steel, oil and the building. Every effort was made to enlarge the list before a nationwide Blue Eagle campaign opens on Aug. 25 with 100,000 volunteer workers.

JOHNSON IN AIR

After having presented steel and oil codes to Roosevelt in his bed room, Johnson is preparing to leave today for a Saturday night, Johnson's battle with the bituminous coal magnates and employers confer with them almost continuously until the fight is settled.

The automobile code was being prepared for presentation to manufacturers, following a hearing with indications that the motorist open shop clause would be stricken and minimum wages proposed by the manufacturers increased.

The hardest problem faced by the recovery administration, with the coal industry. Twenty-eight group codes must be replaced with one national code, recognizing and providing for regional differences, Johnson informed the operators.

Control of production and minimum price provisions were to be written into a code by the recovery administration, following the precedent set in codes for the lumber and oil industries.

MAY BE TEMPORARY

The price fixing and production provisions of the lumber and oil codes were regarded as significant.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Indicating the tremendous interest aroused in Europe over President Roosevelt's recovery program, the state department today announced that Egypt was sending its minister of finance here to watch developments.

There was a strong possibility that a temporary code would be agreed for the coal industry. A precedent also has been established (Continued on Page Two)

SLEEPING SICKNESS EPIDEMIC SWEEPING ST. LOUIS; 12 DEAD

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21.—With twelve victims dead and new cases in the dread sleeping sickness epidemic increased to 125, health authorities today turned to experiments with monkeys in their campaign to check the spreading disease here.

Monkeys will be made the subjects of laboratory tests to determine, if possible, how the encephalitis germs are transmitted among humans, Dr. J. P. Leake of the U. S. public health service said.

Eight new cases were reported here last night as the twelfth victim, Mrs. Mary Joachim, 50 years old, died.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

If Portsmouth's Spartans are going anywhere in the National Professional football league this fall they had better start building their ball club. They've lost at least two stars who were outstanding in the league in the persons of Earl "Dutch" Clark, sterling quarterback, and Bill McKillop, as fine an end as there was in the loop. Clark has gone to Colorado State School of Mines as head coach and has taken McKillop with him as line mentor.

They're trying to sign Bob Campiglio, star eastern collegian, but have given up hope of attaching the name of Cliff Battles, Kentucky star, to a Spartan contract. Boston has him under lock and key and will trade him for not less than half of the Portsmouth's favor. Coach Patsy Clark is back in the fold, and that's something.

The next paragraph will be entitled "The Missing Dime" or "Lost in the Shuffle" and it has to do with the passing of the collection hat at recreation ball games.

Many, many persons who can afford to toss a nickel or dime into the hat "look out the window" when it is passed. These same people get as much kick out of the games as does anyone else and probably they are the first to cry on a poor decision. It is necessary that every nickel possible be obtained to help defray expenses for balls and it seems that those who can afford it would deposit a nickel or dime just to help a little.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Myrtle Reichelderfer and Miss Ruby Kuhn, of Talbot, left Monday for Chicago to attend the Century of Progress exposition.

Four persons were killed and 21 others were injured and burned, three critically, when two trucks, one loaded with inflammable alcohol, collided on the Philadelphia-pk, three miles north of here, early today, overturned and burst into flames.

The dead were: Henry Cummings, 27; Daniel Mahoney, 20; and Francis Jaskel, 25, all of Chester, and an unidentified woman. They were trapped in the blazing wreckage of the truck in which they were returning from a picnic.

An explosion showered the victims with flaming gasoline and alcohol as they sought to escape.

LOCAL OUTFITS BEATEN TWICE AT LANCASTER

Circleville Oils Drop Extra-Inning Contest, Rally Defeats Sluggers.

Circleville's recreation ball team did not do so well at Lancaster Sunday afternoon dropping two games. The Utica Independents were the winners.

Circleville Oils took on the Uticas in the first game and had them beat 5-3, entering the ninth inning. Some loose outfield play permitted two runs to score to tie up the game, a splendid throw to the plate by Art Steele at third base cutting off a run which would have ended the ball game right there.

Eve Merriman's hit sent in a run for the Oils in the first of the left but the Lancaster boys scored two runs with two out in their half to win.

Leroy Oliver tossed them for the Oils with Pickering the Lancaster pitcher Binkley a former local boy caught for the Utica outfit.

The Oil lineup was Oliver, Robinson, C. Wallace, 1b; Purcell, 2b; Merriman, ss; Steele, 3b; Heeter, lf; Parks, cf; Peters, rf.

In the second game a combined Sluggers-Bullies team lost 6-2 after leading 3-0 in the eighth inning. Eddie Calahan had the Utica nine under his thumb in the first seven innings but they broke out with plenty of base-hits in the eighth to score all their runs.

The local lineup was Calahan, p; Brannon, c; Trimmer, 1b; Strawser, 2b; Hickey, ss; Stevens, 3b; Moore, lf; Watson, cf; Thompson, rf.

The Panthers defeated the Henry's team, 8-1, on the Green Monday afternoon. The Panthers just can't stand the speed of the younger athletes.

member of the state civil service commission, C. P. McKeen, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Ralph Benedum of East Liverpool, Anton Hochman of Bridgeport, representing the Belmont County Educational and Political association, and Marie Krue of Martins Ferry.

Mrs. Nolan took charge of her husband's campaign headquarters today to greet eastern Ohio visitors and all others arriving here.

A meeting of Democratic leaders is scheduled for Tuesday night, when efforts will be made to reach a tentative agreement in advance about the chairmanship, but Nolan asserted he will not be bound by its decision.

"I'll go to the caucus, but only briefly," he asserted, "as I do not intend to be removed from the race before the vote is taken Thursday."

Senator Bulkeley and his supporters had not arrived here today. Reports that the senator might later shift his support to Burr Gungwer, Cleveland Democratic leader, could not be verified.

Former Chairman Brunner, who resigned to become state manager of the home owners' loan corporation, thus far has refused to state whom he favors and is expected also to declare his neutrality.

BRAVES' DRIVE LOOP FEATURE, BEAT PIRATES

Boston Team In Virtual Tie For Second Place; Washington Gaining.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—So they took the $50,000 and bought a winning ball club.

That seems to be the story of those amazing Boston Braves who came from nowhere in the National league until today they are in a virtual tie for second place with the Pittsburgh Pirates, seven and a half games behind the New York Giants. Since August 1 the Braves have won 15 out of 19 games.

What was the matter with the Braves had more angles than a jig-saw puzzle until they wheeled the bag of gold over to Philadelphia and exchanged it for Whitney and Lee, a couple of soaking goods, who made healthy hits grow where nothing but foul balls seemed to thrive before.

Whitney, third baseman, made the Braves' infield click and with Lee in the left garden the triple got some much needed hitting.

The new deal worked wonders all around. Indeed for Wes Gehrig, who with Knobe, was thrown in along with the $50,000 to sweeten the pot, he proved a hitting sensation in Philadelphia's hand box park. He ended his 29th day in 1932 but in Philly his high 30s drop over the fence.

DEFEAT PIRATES

Whitney got three hits and Lee two yesterday as the Braves beat the Pirates, 5 to 1, in 11 innings and then came back in the vesper to triumph again, 8 to 1. Wally Berger sent out this 21st home run of the season in the first game and Ben Cartwells win in the night-capper was his seventh winning success.

Mal Schumacher, a 19-year-old 14th victory in seven hits. The Chicago Cubs with cheering hits. The score was 6 to 1 and gave the Giants the biggest lead they have enjoyed since they ascended even themselves by first taking the league lead.

Washington's Senators flattered the St. Louis Browns twice, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1, extending their winning streak to 13 games. George Baskister lost a pitching set in the opener to Earl Whitball and Reynolds' fumble of Mann's single in the fifth sent Washington ahead in the finale.

Lon Gehrig got his homers No. 21 and 22 and his pals whacked 26 more blows as the New York Yankees humbled the Chicago Sox twice, 14 to 3 and 11 to 3. Allen and Uhle were the winning mound gents.

Storm Sweeps Eastern Coast Carrying Several To Death; Toll Now 8.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—Over tumbling seas strewn with the wreckage of small sailing craft, coast guard ships and airplanes today pressed a hunt for additional victims of a real storm which hurled down on the New Jersey and Long Island coasts taking the lives of at least eight persons kicking up mountainous seas and playing havoc with fishing and pleasure craft.

Exact number of dead was still uncertain early today. Thirty-one vessels were accounted for this morning and at least 300 persons had been brought in to the Cape May coast guard station. But six more boats were still reported missing, and it was feared the death toll from the storm would mount to ten or more.

The northeast, breaking suddenly, spent most of its fury along the Jersey coast from Atlantic City to Ocean City, after battering the Long Island shore and coastal section. Along the Jersey coast, small craft were picked up and tossed ashore like driftwood, battered by mountainous rollers, or overturned before they could seek shelter.

Scores of thrilling rescues were reported along the coast.

RIVER PROJECT BEING SPEEDED

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 21.—Efforts were being made today to speed work on the construction of two new locks and a dam in the Ohio river at Gallipolis, Ohio.

Determined to get the work under way as soon as possible, federal engineers in the Charleston sub-office have transferred four draftsmen and engineers from the Huntington district office to complete plans and specifications. The Gallipolis project will be constructed at a cost of $2,000,000 to the federal government.

Canal For Washington

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 21.—All Western Washington will become a huge island if plans here are completed to dig a canal from Olympia to the Columbia River. Puget Sound would be cut off from the city and a new artificial harbor the general level to the Columbia. A canal would also be constructed to Grays Harbor.

Last week Taplin held an NRA hearing again, by saying that many coal operators were "gyppers" and by advocating government regulation, unions and high wages.

MAN HANGS AFTER MURDERING GIRL, 19

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Three days of searching for Miss Mary Peshak, 19 years old, was ended today with discovery of her body, clothed, strangled body in the basement where her slayer, Charles Denges, 45, had hanged himself.

After reconstructing the tragedy police were convinced that Denges had beaten and strangled the girl to death Friday and had secreted until he ended his own life in remorse. Miss Peshak was a niece of Denges by marriage.

The total annual consumption of gas here for commercial, industrial and residential use was 318,000,000 cubic feet in 1932 as compared to 123,500,000 cubic feet for Circleville.

No action was taken on the company's proposal at Friday night's meeting in Circleville council deciding to wait until next regular meeting before endeavoring to arrive at a decision.

ENGINEERS HIRED

In addition to a possible gas fight, Circleville council this week employed the firm of Fossick and Hilmer, consulting engineers, at a cost of $2,350 to make a survey of the city's electrical and water needs within 60 days and to make a report on the justness of present rates paid the Southern Ohio Electric Co. and the Ohio Water Service Co. there. Following this report, the city may decide to build its own electric and water plant.

The battle between union labor and advocates of the open shop seethed under cover as the big industry codes were being written. Thus far Johnson has shown no sign of deviating from the policy of incorporating provisions of the National Recovery Act which guarantee the right of collective bargaining.

While the fight for big industry codes was on, plans for the national NRA drive beginning a week from today were outlined.

Charles F. Horner, in charge of the campaign, declared 1,500,000 volunteer workers, including some of the nation's most widely known citizens, would cooperate. Radio, movie and stage stars were enlisted.

The "big names" obtained by Horner include former Gov. Alfred Smith, John D. Rockefeller Jr., Walter Chrysler, President Glenn Frank of Wisconsin university, Lewis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, and General W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Across the pressing dark" . . . KIPLING

TIME IS ONLY A MEASURE PROGRESS IS LIFE

THAT mighty panorama of the world's work, The Century of Progress at Chicago, provides a means for retrospection through which we may look back and take stock of the achievements of the past.

In Kaleidoscopic form we see the transition from the ox-cart to aviation; from the telephone to television; from the telegraph to telephoto; the strides of science, invention and exploration into the mysteries of the sea, the land and the stratosphere.

It's an inventory of the century's progress . . . a reminder that progress is incessant; an inspiration to carry on. And as we face forward again we see Opportunity as our guide beckoning us to follow in his train to greater achievement. It's a challenge to knowledge, to vision, to ingenuity.

It spurs men on to quicken their pace to keep abreast of march and it inspires youth to key their energies and talents and bents to win laurels in the open fields ahead.

It broadens vision. It proves that the dreamers are actually the doers . . . the inventors, scientists, explorers find ways of turning what is apparently intangible into things that are practical to better living and a higher culture.

Let's hear no more talk of inertia, industrial stagnancy, sparsity of opportunity. The denial is before us. The world moves on and every mile post is a goal to some accomplishment. The past is inspirational. The present is promise. These say to us 'chins up, chest out, square your shoulders, adjust your affairs and Forward March.'

Sex and the Talkies

Few observers, it is believed, will go as far as a certain chair theater operator who believes that an excess of sex in the films is causing many parents to break their children of the movie habit. But most of them will concede that sex is often badly handled by Hollywood and that the producers are largely at fault when theater attendance falls off.

Modern parents are too liberal and tolerant too much censoring for their progeny. Those who place limitations on their children's attendance at the "talkies" do so for other reasons than cinema faults. Moreover, it seems that among one's acquaintances the severest critics of the films are those who seldom if ever see a picture and who are childless. Imagination takes the place of reality with them.

However, this matter of sex is but a detail. If fewer people are going to the "movies," it is because they have found that the realization too seldom comes up to the expectation. There are too many mediocre or worse pictures interspersed with the excellent to make it a good gamble for the film fan.

Mass production has been introduced in the motion picture industry, with the apparent result that quality is being sacrificed for quantity. It is a pity that the industry, with everything in the world to work for, is producing so few cinema classics.

Thus, it would appear that the financial backers of the producers, if they are as it is reported—interesting themselves in what their money is producing, could not do better than to modify a practice under which scenarios are accepted, not because they are good, but because maximum production must be maintained.

Rheumatism may have been Nature's first primitive effort to establish a weather bureau.

High Toll

EXPERIENCE proves that most industrial eye accidents are preventable, yet statistics prove that industrial accidents are the cause of 15 per cent of all blindness in the United States. This frightful toll of blindness gives pause for sober thought.

This situation seems the more appalling because of the gratifying progress made against blindness resulting from infant diseases. In 20 years blindness from this source has been reduced by one-half. It is manifest that this important work has just begun.

When one reflects upon the enormous number of babies who are either born blind or become so shortly after birth, and upon the high rate of industrial blindness, a realization of the importance of the preventive work done on the mind.

That this work should be offset and rendered in a large degree nugatory by carelessness in handling industrial machinery seems tragic indeed; that it should be spoiled by improper or defective machinery seems too horrible to think about.

Much depends on this generation whether the next must carry the tremendous burden of a large blind population due to the carelessness of workers or the criminal negligence of employers.

Confiscation of property is wicked bolshevism. The new way is to make the tax too high and then take it for taxes.

Evolution isn't finished, and centuries from now electric chairs may be valuable only as period furniture.

Lie: A conception seven parts imagination, and three parts yellow streak.

Naughtiness is not more prevalent than yore. It is just less sneaking.

Human nature is the same at all ages. A baby's first yell means "gimme."

Americanism: Paying a dollar down; walking out like a landlord who has just collected the rent.

"STOLEN LOVE"

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

COPYRIGHT BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts in a house long run to seed. Joan is a very impressionable, falls in love with Bill Martin, whose social status is far beneath her own. The aunts plan to send her away to school. Bill is arrested, the innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, and Joan frantically asks her aunts for her railroad ticket so she can sell it to obtain money to bail him out. Joan confesses her love for Bill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XI.

The things that Aunt Evvie said were lost on Joan. She hardly heard them. Just a word here and there. . . . After all, we've done for you, brought you up so carefully. . . . sacrificed. . . . a common greasy mechanic. . . . Jailbird. . . .

What did it matter what Evvie said? What did it matter what anyone said? Nothing mattered but Bill. . . . and Bill was in prison and nobody to help. . . .

Her back was against the wall. Nothing left to lose, everything to gain. She fought as she had never fought before in all her seventeen dominated years. She had defied Aunt Evvie, smashed her power. She'd been fighting, fighting her way to Bill, and then they'd be married, and go off somewhere together. . . . hand in hand. . . . they two, against the world. . . .

Even when she knew that Aunt Evvie wouldn't give up the ticket she didn't despair. There was twelve dollars, she'd take that. . . . borrow the rest somewhere. . . . maybe Captain Horner. . . .

"Very well," she said at last. Her rumbling bass was ominous quiet. "I've done my best. Now, I give up."

Joan's mouth that had been set and stony, twitched. She leaned against the wall, suddenly tired, more tired than she had even been before. The floor seemed to rock under her feet, a dozen black-browed Aunt Evvies went whirling under her drooping eyes.

"I'm so—so sick!" she said in a small, surprised voice.

"You'll be sicker before I'm through with you. And it's your own fault. You were going East to Belle, a good, fortunate girl. Now you've made that impossible. You're still going."

"I'm not!" Joan fought the dizziness to snap the answer still defiantly.

"All right then, you're not," Evvie's tone was ominously quiet again. "I shall not argue. You made one choice for yourself, now there is just one more left for you to make. Either you go to Belle with a letter which I consider it my duty to write her, or you go to the reform school. Take your choice."

"I won't go—you can't make me!"

"You can't fight her, Evvie—she's like Veronica," Babe whispered. "Oh, be reasonable, sister. Don't you see she doesn't care? No pride—like Veronica. Oh please, we don't want another scandal. . . . Evvie, where are you going?"

"I am going," Evvie said, "to send for someone from the Juvenile Court. Thank heaven, Joan is still under age."

"Evvie, you wouldn't—" Babe quavered. "Oh, Evvie!"

There was no mistaking Evvie's purpose. It showed in every line of her set, square jaw, every inch of her stiff tailored shirt-waist and uncompromising black alpaca skirt. Evvie made no idle threats.

Out of her old-fashioned pocket she pulled a little fat gold watch. "It is five minutes past eight," she said. "I will give Joan three minutes to make her choice. If I'm going to be disgraced by your conduct,

I'm going to be disgraced doing my duty. Either you give me your word of honor to go quietly to the train without attempting to see this person again—or at eight minutes past eight I shall take the first step to. . . . to have you brought before the Juvenile Court."

Heavy eyed, hardly comprehending at first, Joan looked from one to the other. Reform School. Then she would be powerless to help Bill. . . . separated. . . . never to meet again. . . .

The fat gold watch ticked off the seconds. Aunt Evvie shifted impatiently. Now that her mind was made up she was anxious to be off, have it over with. Would the girl ever speak?

And just before the minute hand came to the little dot that was the eight minute mark, Joan surrendered. Complete, ignominious, unconditional surrender.

"I'll go on the train," she said.

Bill was in prison and nobody to help. . . .

so low that Aunt Evvie wasn't sure she heard aright. "What's that. Speak up." "I said I'll go on the train."

"Without trying to see that—that jailbird again?"

Joan nodded. The tears that gushed from her despairing eyes choked and blinded her. Paroxysms of hoarse, racking sobs shook her, as Evvie's heavy hand came to do.

"And you will go quietly, and not make any trouble?"

"Then for mercy's sake, go wash your face!" Evvie concluded savagely. "Standing there crying like that—without even trying to cover your face. . . . I declare I don't think you have any pride or decency at all. Evvie was not a generous victor."

Joan groped her way out of the room. She had no answer. Neither had she any pride. . . . nothing. . . . but love, for Bill. . . .

There wasn't a minute to lose. They had to get the eleven o'clock boat to connect with the Overland train from San Francisco. Evvie wanted to be there early. She had her stiff black hat, and her new veil with the black dots, on already. "Hurry! Hurry!" she called, impatiently. "Move! Move! Dear me, but you're slow!"

Joan's numb fingers were at her thumbs. When she forced her tired feet into the brown oxfords that she was so proud of yesterday, she could hardly tie the laces.

The little stiff white shirt-waist, looking like a younger sister of Aunt Evvie's, stiffly one, rattled starchily over her shoulders, and she couldn't find the collar button.

"Hurry! Hurry! I declare you're trying to be exasperating!" But Joan only looked at her vacantly, and in the end Evvie had to put the new round straw hat on her head, and button the square little tweed coat over the white waist.

They got into Evvie's chugging car. Heeley was leaning out of the kitchen window, wiping red hands guine tigers and other beasts: of the jungle—all ferocious and as anxious to leap at their protector's throat as at their trainer's. But the drama is barely concerned with the activities of the animals, leaning more toward the reactions of humans to the oppressive circumstances found in life itself.

AT THE CLIFTONA

A new type of musical film entertainment is presented in "Melody Cruise" at the Cliftona Theatre, which is destined to be the forerunner of a new era of film-making, believes Phil Harris, internationally celebrated radio favorite featured with Charlie Ruggie and Greta Nissen.

Harris who has been broadcasting for four years from the famous Coconut Grove in Los Angeles, opines that "Melody Cruise" pictures life as people live it. A person's every action—walking, talking, playing, eating—is done in rhythm, he claims, and the film expands these operations, combining them with clever lyrics which interlock with the rhythmic dialogue.

AT THE GRAND

One of the year's most unusual pictures, "Zoe in Budapest" with Gene Raymond and Loretta Young, comes to the Grand Theatre at a time when a novelty on the screen is like a breath of spring air. Filled with natural drama and climaxed by an epical coupling, in terror the most dangerous ever filmed, "Zoe in Budapest" remains the movie's high point of entertainment to date.

The main situation that of a young boy who resents the ruthless slaughter of animals for their fur is enacted before a background of growling wolves, san-on a blue apron. She waved a skin-piercing wrist. But Aunt Babe, on the front porch, felt too ill to wave. She just stood there, watching the car disappear down the hill. She had made up her mind to have another "nervous spell."

The little brown trunk that had been Grandfather Van Fleet's had gone on ahead. There was just the little handbag for Joan to carry.

Aunt Evvie parked the car, took the key out carefully, and dropped it into her purse. "Come, come—the ferry is in. Joan—move!"

So they got on the ferry. They passed Alcatraz Island. . . . that black prison on the rocks above the sea. "Where are the other prisons—for people who aren't soldiers or sailors?" she asked very low.

"I don't know—now you stop moaning about that!"

They passed the docks, where foreign ships lay moored with cables, that glittered in the sun. Now they were passing the river boats.

As its name implies, chronic bronchitis is a persistent inflammation of the bronchial tubes. It is a common affliction of middle age, but it occurs in young adults and in children. It usually follows a winter cold and cough and continues through the winter months. Severe cases may last all the year.

The sufferer from chronic bronchitis has difficulty in breathing. He complains of shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion. There is a constant wheezing in the chest and the patient is made uncomfortable by a hacking and persistent cough.

Spasmodic attacks of coughing is a common complaint in this annoying disorder. The face becomes red-purple and the victim is only relieved when he "brings up" large amounts of mucus.

Weakens the Heart

As a rule, repeated violent attacks of coughing leave the sufferer in a weakened and exhausted state. The severe coughing and hacking place a strain upon the muscles of the heart. Indeed, most sufferers from chronic bronchitis have enlargement of the heart. Eventually the heart muscle weakens and then signs of heart failure appear. Unless the strain is removed, the heart may become so weakened that it is unable to carry on its normal functions.

Chronic bronchitis is often traced to neglect of the teeth and to faulty hygiene of the mouth. All infected and decayed teeth should be removed as soon as possible. Many times relief follows the removal of enlarged and diseased tonsils.

If you suffer from chronic bronchitis do not accept it as a trivial ailment. Consult with your physician. Follow his directions and advice. It is a disease that ought not to be neglected.

Bronchitis Is Too Often Neglected

It Quickly Becomes Chronic and May Cause Other Ills

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

TO TAKE stock of ourselves once in a while is a good thing to do. No doubt many of you suffer from certain disorders yet you pay little attention to them.

If you have no pain or marked discomfort, you never think of your body.

This is unwise. Many ailments are painless yet when neglected they do great damage to the body. Attended to at the proper time they are gotten rid of, as they should be.

It is probable that of all the chronic diseases, bronchitis is the one most often overlooked. This is unfortunate. Continued neglect of chronic bronchitis may lead to serious disorders of the heart, lungs and other organs.

Common in Middle Age

As its name implies, chronic bronchitis is a persistent inflammation of the bronchial tubes. It is a common affliction of middle age, but it occurs in young adults and in children.

It usually follows a winter cold and cough and continues through the winter months. Severe cases may last all the year.

Pomona Grange In Summer Meet

The Pickaway County Pomona Grange held its summer session Saturday, Aug. 15, with Scioto Valley Grange as host at the latter's hall, three miles north of Ashville.

About 100 members took part in the forenoon business session which consisted of reports from the various subordinate granges and other matters of grange interest.

At the noon hour the members of the Scioto Valley Grange served a very appetizing dinner which was followed by reception of five new members and discussion of the government wheat allotment plan led by W. L. Spangler, of Tarrion, former state senator. Mr. Spangler also spoke briefly of some other matters of interest to farmers.

Following the business session the meeting was thrown open and the following program was presented by the Three Graces, Ceres, Pomona and Flora:

Song, Bringing in the Sheaves, by the grange;

Roll call of officers; each lady officer, answering by naming her favorite breakfast food and the men by naming their favorite grain;

Legend of Ceres by Mrs. Arthur Sark of Nebraska grange;

Vocal solo, My Wild Irish Rose, by Thomas Heffner, of Washington grange;

Vocal duets, Going Back to Mother and Home and Passing Down Life's Way by the Beatty brothers of Darbyville grange; Legend of Pomona by Mrs. S. E. Beers of Scioto grange;

Down in the Old Cherry Orchard by male quartette of Scioto grange;

Reading, The Goddess Flora, by Mrs. C. A. Dreisbach of Logan Elm grange;

Piano duet by Giff Macklin and Mrs. Frank Schride of Salt Creek grange;

Legend of Flora by Dorothy Glick of Washington grange;

Vocal solo, In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree, by Mrs. George Finch of Scioto grange;

Talk by Mrs. George, food specialist.

Legend of Ceres by Mrs. Arthur Sark of Nebraska grange;

Vocal solo, My Wild Irish Rose, by Thomas Heffner, of Washington grange;

Vocal duets, Going Back to Mother and Home and Passing Down Life's Way by the Beatty

ASLEEP ON RAILS

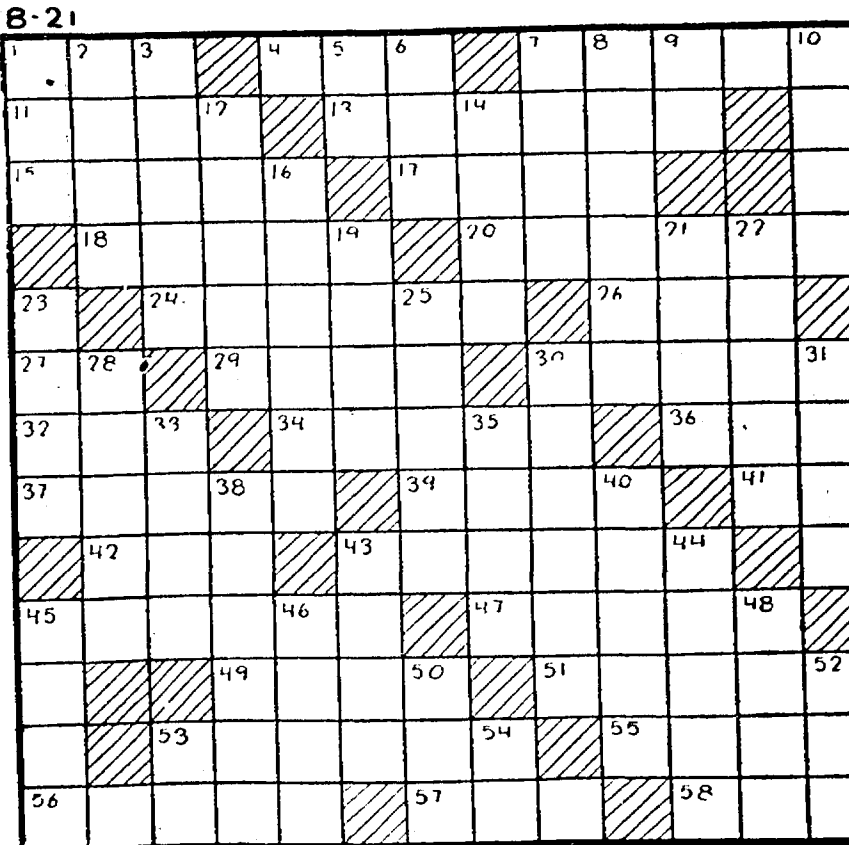

BUTTE, Mont.—George Andrews, 27, went to sleep on a railroad track. Members of a train crew saw him lying between the rails too late to stop the train. After the train passed over him they rushed back to pick up the corpse. Instead Andrews stood up. The nine inches of clearance between roadbed and the axle of the train saved him from death.

Joins Master in Death

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark.—"Trouble" is dead! Grieved at the death of her master, a widely-known hotel proprietor here, "Trouble," an 11-year-old Boston bulldog died following an unbroken fast of two weeks which was begun the day her master died. Efforts to persuade the dog to eat and drink were futile.

SOCIETY

Miss Helen Crist, Editor, Phone 581.

CLASS OF 1921 HAS REUNION SATURDAY

The graduating class of 1921 of the Circleville high school held its annual reunion Saturday morning at the home of Mrs. Edna Valentine of the Ringgold.

Hulda Seyfert was chairman of the affair which proved to be one of unusual interest. Mrs. John Renick was chairman of the program committee and was assisted by Emmitt L. Crist, Melvin Bates, Miss Henrietta Stocklen and Mrs. Blanche Mutschman.

At seven o'clock the group assembled in the spacious dining room and found their places marked with dainty hand painted place cards at the handsomely appointed banquet table which was centered with a huge bowl of blue delphinium and white asters carrying out the color of the class.

Hunter Chambers at the piano and Marion Sensenbrenner, baritone, led the group in the singing of the Red and Black, school song of C. H. S.

A toast card was passed among the guests and each in turn responded with a clever toast.

At the close of the sumptuous three course dinner, the class retired to the living room where they were graciously entertained by two class members who have recently become known through their radio broadcasts, Marion Sensenbrenner, baritone, and Hunter Chambers, pianist. Mr. Sensenbrenner delighted his audience with his splendid rendition of the following numbers, "In an Old Fashioned Town," "The Apple Blossom," "Roamin' in the Moonlight" and two delightful encores.

Miss Seyfert read an interesting letter from a former teacher, C. H. S., Miss Myrtle Cunningham.

The next number, a test in psychology, was introduced by Mrs. Renick, and the concluding number proved to be an interesting game of sea warfare on paper under the supervision of Emmitt Crist.

The class elected Mr. Crist chairman for arrangements for the 1934 reunion.

A large percentage of the former class were unable to be present. Those attending from a distance include Harvey Clendenen, Ashland, Ky.; Byron Fredrick, Marysville; Lee Riley, Belleville, Ill.; and from this city were Mary Callahan, Carl, Hunter Chambers, Emmitt Crist, Walter Hilde, Walter Jones, Frances Mason, Blanche Young Mutschman, Russell Palm, Frances Roehrer, Renick, Marion Sensenbrenner, Hulda Seyfert, Henrietta Stocklen, Walter Stout and Russell Valentine.

GUESTS AT PARTY IN CHILLICOTHE

Mrs. D. K. Ludford and daughter, Geraldine and Mrs. Earl Imbler, this city were among the twenty guests invited to a shower given at the home of Mrs. Edward Short of Chillicothe Friday evening. The affair honored Mrs. Ludford's daughter, Mrs. J. B. Acord, of Chillicothe, formerly Francis Ludford of this city. Cards and dancing were diversions of the evening and were concluded when refreshments were served.

OVER FIFTY ATTEND ORR FAMILY REUNION

Over fifty members of the Orr family and also a number of guests attended the thirteenth annual reunion of that group Sunday, Aug. 20. The day was a splendid one for the affair which was held at the picturesque Concord church grounds situated on Londonderry-ph, Route 56, south-east of Chillicothe.

At noon a basket lunch of sumptuous food was placed on several long tables under the sheltering trees, many of which were planted by early ancestors of those assembled for the day. James H. Orr, president of the family organization called the gathering to order and presided over the business session which followed. The secretary, Mrs. Dennis H. Dresbach called the roll.

An interesting history of the Orr family was read by Mrs. W. K. Orr. In her notes Mrs. Orr related how the Orr family came to America from Ireland settling in Virginia thence to Ohio, their covered wagon being the fifth one to bring settlers into territory west of Wheeling, W. Va.

Historical happenings of family life were related by J. W. Rittenour, Mrs. Hattie M. Ellis, James Orr, John Purdum, Carl Hurst, Mrs. David N. Bennett and Atty. Dwight L. Withgott.

D. Melvin Dresbach, of Albany Medical college, Albany, N. Y., was introduced and he responded with appropriate greetings.

Original poems were read by L. J. Hurst of Columbus.

Family photographs and albums of early pioneer ancestors were brought for identification by several of the members.

Officers elected for the coming year were as follows: James H. Orr, president; Mrs. Paul A. Johnson, secretary; James H. Orr, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. A. Dane Ellis, Mrs. Carl Hurst and O. J. Smith, committee for 1934 reunion.

IT TAKES
HEALTHY NERVES
TO FLY EIGHT DAYS AND NIGHTS
WITHOUT A STOP

● FRANCES MARSALIS AND LOUISE THADEN set the world's endurance flight record for women when they brought their plane down at Curtiss Field, Long Island, after flying more than 196 hours without a stop through fog, rain, blinding sun, and pitch-black night.

● IN ADDITION to their astounding endurance flight, Miss Marsalis (Left) and Miss Thaden hold many other flying records. Miss Marsalis is the women's champion stunt flyer of the world. It takes healthy nerves to fly...doubly so to fly like these two young women. It is significant that both are enthusiastic Camel smokers.

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

MISS THADEN says: "Flying is a terrific strain at times. I frankly don't know what I should do without cigarettes. But I've found that different cigarettes have different effects on my nerves. For some years I've smoked Camels. They taste better. They're much milder. And I've noticed that they never upset my nerves."

MISS MARSALIS says: "I started smoking Camels because most of my friends who were flyers seemed to prefer them. I've never changed because I can't afford to take chances with my nervous system."

Camel's costlier tobaccos do make a difference...in taste, in mildness. They never jangle the nerves. Your taste and your nerves will confirm this. Turn to Camels.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. You will find Camels rich in flavor and delightfully mild.

● WHAT A THRILL! And how a good smoke adds to its enjoyment! Light up a cigarette. And for the sake of your nerves, make it a Camel...the milder cigarette that's made from costlier tobaccos.

Camel's Costlier Tobaccos
NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES
NEVER TIRE YOUR TASTE
